

New Mexico Valley Flood Brings Death; Damage In Millions

ROSWELL, N.M. (P) — A fertile southeastern New Mexico valley, a week ago desperately in need of rain, remained awash today from its most devastating flood in years.

The savage waters, pouring off the eastern slopes of the Sacramento Mountains, left four known dead, three presumed dead and seven missing in its wake. It hit, to some degree, half a dozen communities and an untold number of farms and ranches.

The damage cannot yet be estimated, but it will run in the millions.

More Rain Forecast

Prolonged heavy rains sent the waters tumbling into the Pecos Valley, bringing swollen rivers, creeks and arroyos bubbling into parts of Roswell, Carlsbad, Dexter, Hagerman, Artesia and Lake Arthur.

By nightfall Thursday night, the flood threat had eased considerably and the streams of muddy water began to subside. But fresh rains in the mountainous area to the west of here were reported late Thursday night and officials continued a close watch. Severed communications, washed out highways and bridges, broken rail lines and livestock missing remained today for the cleanup.

The normally placid, and in recent days dry, Rio Hondo crested at 22 feet at its peak Thursday afternoon pouring into the west end of Roswell up to seven feet in depth. An estimated 209 families were forced to leave their homes here.

Docks Swept Away

To the south, in the Dexter, Hagerman and Lake Arthur areas, it picked up momentum from waters pouring off the watershed into other streams and arroyos, but confined its damage mostly to the agricultural areas. At Artesia, further to the south, it forced partial evacuation of one residential area but failed to touch downtown Artesia.

The Pecos River, into which the creeks and streams feed, ripped through Carlsbad, taking boat docks, diving towers and other similar structures with it. But it stayed within its banks and started subsiding.

Democratic Tide In Minnesota To Elect Humphrey

(Editor's Note: This is another of several stories by roving Associated Press reporters analyzing the congressional campaign in key states.)

By DOUGLAS B. CORNELL
MINNEAPOLIS (P) — A Democratic tide in Minnesota apparently is sweeping Hubert Humphrey toward another six years in the United States Senate.

If it keeps surging as strongly between now and Nov. 2—in a state that poses something of a popularity test of the entire Eisenhower program—Democrats figure they can hold all their House seats and capture one to three held by Republicans. The Democrats now have four, the GOP five.

They look for rougher going when it comes to capturing the State House.

Powerful Debaters

State Democrats bubble with confidence over the Senate race. Republicans concede they have a tough, uphill fight to shove State Treasurer Val Bjornson into Humphrey's seat.

In the arena are two powerful debaters, men widely known throughout the state, quick to make friends, but political opposites.

Humphrey, 43, a Senate first-term, types the new deal — "Fair Deal" element of his party. In his campaign he is banging away hard at one main target—the Eisenhower record and program. There probably isn't any Democrat the GOP would rather toss out of Congress.

Except on farm price supports, Bjornson goes straight down the line for the Eisenhower administration and its program.

"When you vote for Val," he says, "you're voting for Ike."

The 48-year-old former news and radio man tells street-corner audiences to send Republicans to Washington to help Eisenhower finish the job—not "democratic enemies who would hamstring, hog tie, handicap this administration at mid-term."

Farmers Dissatisfied

"Send people to help Ike?" Humphrey snorts to the voters. "Send Democrats to help you."

The two agree the farm issue is the big one in Minnesota and that it is hurting the GOP. There are other issues, of course, foreign policy, peace and prosperity, taxes, communism. They are getting a going over from the candidates, too. But more than anything else the election outcome hinges on how the farmers feel.

Some rural areas, heavily Republican, no doubt will remain Republican. Yet there is a definite current of dissatisfaction among the folks in the field and on the plow—a dissatisfaction based on lower prices and incomes and sparked by Democratic charges that the Eisenhower administration has broken its promises to farmers.

Some who voted Democratic in 1952 say they are stronger Democrats this time. Some who voted Republican two years ago are hesitating, teetering. A few say they already have made up their minds and are jumping from the GOP to the Democrats.

Testimony Ends In Senate FHA Housing Inquiry

By JOE HALL

WASHINGTON (P) — The Senate Banking Committee closes out a series of hearings in its housing probe today but Chairman Capehart (R-Ind) said anyone who feels injured by the testimony so far will still get a chance to appear.

Capehart told reporters this specifically includes Rep. Preston (D-Ga.), who earlier in the week accused the Indianan "of indulging in character assassination and . . . in politics on the eve of an election."

The committee Thursday unfolded testimony that Preston was an unlisted stockholder in a Federal Housing Administration (FHA) insured apartment project at Savannah, Ga.

Capehart himself testified that the House member, now running for a fifth term, made almost $50,000 out of the deal. He said he might never have brought the case into the open had not Preston made his blast in a Georgia speech.

Preston himself acknowledged he made a profit, but said it was an entirely legitimate transaction. After today, Capehart said, the committee will devote most of its remaining time for the investigation — slated for another four months or so—to preparing a report on its findings.

But he said that any person who feels harmed by the testimony in the probe so far will be given a chance to file a statement or to appear in person, probably at a November hearing. At least one such request to testify already has come in, he said.

Kidnaper Wins Delay In Death

SAN FRANCISCO (P) — Convicted kidnap-terrorist Caryl Chessman had another tenuous lease on life today, and another legal victory in his six-year fight to avoid the gas chamber.

The State Supreme Court Thursday refused to vacate the stay of execution one of its members granted the 32-year-old author of "Cell 2455, Death Row" on July 29, the eve of his most recent date with death.

That means Chessman's case is again in the hands of the Supreme Court of the United States and he cannot be executed until at least 60 days after that court acts. Chessman's attorney, Berwyn Rice, said he understood the high court plans to consider the case Wednesday.

The court may accept the case and call for written briefs. Or it may refuse to consider the case, as it has once before.

Revives Nazi Aims

HAMBURG, Germany (P) — Walter Langhammer, 35-year-old Hamburg vegetable store employee, is trying to form a political party which will revive the "good features" of Nazism.

Political sources said today that Langhammer calls his organization the "National People's party" and claims a membership of 4,353, some of it in Communist East Germany.

President On Air Tonight To Give GOP Shot In Arm

By MARVIN L. ARROWSMITH

DENVER (P) — President Eisenhower, pictured in a fighting mood in a tough battle, makes a "straight from the shoulder" nationwide television-radio appeal to American voters tonight to keep Republicans in the congressional drivers' seat.

The party's high command, privately concerned about the outcome of the November elections, is hoping the President's speech will — as Vice President Nixon puts it — provide "a tremendous shot in the arm" toward a GOP victory.

The Republican National Committee is footing the bill for putting Eisenhower's address on 158 TV channels and 534 radio stations from coast to coast.

The speech will be carried live over an augmented CBS-TV network and over the NBC and Mu-al radio networks at 8:30 p. m., CST.

The White House says the TV live coverage is the most extensive for any political speech in history.

Eisenhower and Nixon will speak from the stage of Denver's 6,000-seat Municipal Auditorium at a big political rally arranged by the Colorado GOP organization.

On stage with the President and Nixon at the auditorium here tonight will be a group of Republican congressional leaders traveling to Denver to point up one theme of the Eisenhower speech—that the chief executive is counting on a GOP-run 84th Congress to carry out his idea of partnership between the White House and the legislative branch.

Nixon announced Thursday the President has agreed to make at least one more major address than he had planned.

That address will be some time between Oct. 22 and election day, Nov. 2, at a place yet to be chosen. Eisenhower also plans a political speech on election eve, Nov. 1.

Driver Survives 1000-Foot Plunge

DENVER (P) — An automobile plunged off a mountain road and tumbled 1,000 feet into a canyon—but the occupant escaped with deep cuts and a possible arm fracture.

Doctors at Lowry Air Force Base today described the survival of Airman I.C. Escar L. Kimmel, Redfield, Ark., as miraculous.

Investigating officers said Kimmel apparently fell asleep while driving on U. S. 550 near Silverton, Colo., Wednesday night. His car plunged off the highway, fell 150 feet to the canyon wall, losing its motor, and then tumbled another 800 to 900 feet to the Las Animas River bed.

The officers said Kimmel regained consciousness beside the river and finally made his way along a railroad track. He was spotted 10 hours after the accident by another airman. Kimmel is in the base hospital.

Blaze Kills Deputy Marshal In Chicago; 14 Firemen Injured

CHICAGO (P) — A deputy fire marshal died Thursday night in the flaming debris of a burning restaurant, victim of his devotion to his work.

Fourteen firemen were injured, six of them requiring hospitalization.

Paul H. Connors, 60, sixth ranking member of the Chicago fire department, was trapped between timbers when the floor of the two-story building at 3148 W. Roosevelt Rd. gave way, plunging him and three firemen into the basement. The firemen climbed hose lines and were pulled to safety. Connors, who had shouted, "Get out quick!" just before the floor collapsed, was caught in the wreckage. His body was found several hours later.

His wife and two sons, Richard and Paul Jr., kept vigil during the night's search for Connors' body.

Connors was off duty when the extra alarm was sounded Thursday night, his driver, Robert Murphy said, but Connors ordered him to drive to the scene of the fire.

"He never could keep away from fires," said the sons.

Richard said his father had returned three days early from a vacation at Vernon, in Marion County, Ill., to be on hand during Fire Prevention Week.

Fire Commissioner Michael J. Corrigan estimated damage to the building at $25,000.

The cause of the fire was not immediately determined.

Onions In Flood

Air Crash Victim

EL PASO, Tex. (P) — The Air Force announced Thursday that C. H. Foster of Cadillac, Mich., was one of 13 men killed Wednesday night in the crash of a B-50 weather-reconnaissance plane near Willows, Calif.

UNASKED-FOR ASSISTANCE — Operators of this Niles, Mich., hardware store didn't count on any assistance when they hung up their "Going Out of Business" sign. Police say the company's safe was forced open after an attempt to blow it open with dynamite failed. Some $200 was stolen. Police officer Vernon Larson holds one of the prying tools used in "cracking" the safe.

Republican Campaign Labeled 1952 Model By Adlai Stevenson

WICHITA, Kan. (P) — Adlai Stevenson labeled the Republican campaign a 1952 model Thursday night and charged the Eisenhower administration with "foolish boasts and broken promises."

"Vice President Nixon, the Republican chief of staff, has pitched the Republican campaign on the high level of communism, corruption, controls and Korea," he said, adding, "But that's a 1952 model."

Stevenson told an estimated 4,500 persons at a Kansas Democratic rally there is a revolt against "the family quarrels and hopeless divisions of the Republicans, and against policies which consistently favor the few at the expense of many."

"A reborn progressive Democratic party is firmly established in rock-ribbed Republican Maine," the 1952 Democratic presidential nominee declared.

He said he found in Kansas "as in Maine . . . a ground swell of dismay and revolt against the foolish boasts and broken promises" of the Eisenhower administration.

"Even the normally huge Republican majorities in the congressional races have been whittled down to a size which should be quite manageable by us Democrats—come 1956," he said.

Siamese Twins Die In Surgery

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (P) — Siamese twins who were given little chance of reaching maturity without separation are dead after a surgical attempt to separate them.

The twin girls, Connie and Bonnie, died during an operation at University Hospital here Thursday after more than four hours on the operating table.

The parents, Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Johnson, Negro couple from Pine Bluff, Ark., requested the operation after being told there was little hope their children would reach maturity if they remained joined.

They were born July 26 with the sternum bone, which normally lies between the ribs, joining them face-to-face.

Thursday's surgery revealed that the infants' hearts were fused and practically formed a common organ.

Crazy Gunman Dies Battling With 100 Harlem Policemen

NEW YORK (P) — A berserk gunman battled more than 100 police for 90 minutes in a Harlem apartment house Thursday before he was fatally wounded.

Dozens of the building's residents huddled terror-stricken in their apartments while Robert Ricks, 47, Negro cook, led police a running chase and finally shot it out with them at a stairwell of the top floor of the six-story structure. He was riddled by bullets.

Two plainclothesmen investigating bookmaking were questioning another man in another apartment hallway when Ricks entered.

The officers said Ricks fled when he saw them and ignored orders to halt. They chased him and he began firing.

At one point he shouted: "I'm going to die—I'm on the stuff."

Police said they believe he was referring to narcotics addiction.

Atomic Power Plant Planned At Lemont, Ill.

MILWAUKEE (P) — The Allis Chalmers Mfg. Co., announced today it had been named by the Atomic Energy Commission to build an atomic power test plant at Lemont, Ill.

The plant will be an initial step in the AEC's five-year program for the development of competitive electric power from nuclear fuel.

Sargent & Lundy, Chicago, has been selected by the AEC to design an experimental boiling water reactor at Argonne. Allis-Chalmers will design, develop, construct and install the power generating heat transfer and special equipment for the power cycle.

Allis-Chalmers said the project will be a pilot plant through which the AEC hopes to determine the future of nuclear fuel as a competitor or replacement of conventional fuel in the field of electrical power.

The reactor to be built on the Argonne site in Lemont, DuPage County, Ill., will produce 20,000 kilowatts of heat and 5,000 kilowatts of electricity. Uranium fuel will be used.

Construction will begin during the coming year. The plant is expected to be completed in 1956.

Schooner Smashed In Atlantic Storm; Four Persons Saved

NORFOLK, Va. (P) — A few cuts and bruises reminded two men and two women today of their ordeal after their yacht was knifed by a rescuing destroyer and sank in the turbulent Atlantic Ocean.

The story began late Wednesday when the 42-foot yacht Able Lady, bound from New York to Florida, encountered high winds and heavy seas off Virginia's eastern shore.

First the foresail blew out, said Dr. Esther Locke, wife of the yacht's owner, Dr. William P. Locke of Hyde Park, N. Y. "We couldn't put up any more sail . . . so we were blown 40 miles to sea."

During the night, leaks sprang up from heavy seas washing over the small schooner. Pumps were kept going. There was no radio to ask help.

"We saw a cargo boat and set off flares," said Mrs. Locke, "but they did not come near."

The cruiser Juneau finally came on the scene — 30 miles southeast of Cape Henry — and remained until the destroyer Laffey arrived. But the Laffey had trouble getting a line aboard the yacht.

"It was awful . . . terrible . . . the waves were about 30 feet high," Mrs. Locke related.

A big swell threw the bow of the destroyer against the yacht, and the small schooner went down almost before the four persons aboard — the other two were Dr. W. G. Thompson of New York City and Ann Marlow of Poughkeepsie, N. Y. — could don life jackets and leap into the heavy seas.

After about 20 minutes, crewmen from the destroyer were able to grab the two women and haul them aboard. The two men got aboard themselves.

French Premier Faces Barrage Of Questioning

By CARL T. HARTMAN

PARIS (P) — Premier Pierre Mendes-France faced a crossfire of questions today in the French National Assembly on the London agreement to rearm West Germany. But prospects were good for a favorable vote at the end of the debate.

Government supporters sought agreement on a resolution satisfying to many deputies as possible. It was considered virtually certain the final text would endorse the Premier's work in London and express the Assembly's confidence in his ability to negotiate the necessary formal treaties.

The vote may come late tonight. Mendes-France asked for a blanket endorsement of the principles of the London agreements, which provide for inclusion of West Germany in the Brussels mutual defense alliance, admission of the Bonn government to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, and West German rearmament under the control of the Brussels group and NATO.

The Premier also demanded authority to negotiate the treaties carrying out these agreements at ministerial conferences to be held later this month. After the pact are drawn up and signed, the Assembly must vote on them.

Love Nest Gun Girl Sentenced

SALISBURY, England (P) — Mrs. Mavis Wheeler, 39-year-old blonde divorcee, was sentenced today to six months in jail for the love nest shooting of Lord Vivian, 48, London impresario.

The jury of nine men and three women acquitted Mrs. Wheeler of trying to murder Lord Vivian, married and the father of three children. But it convicted her of unlawfully and maliciously wounding him and illegal possession of a gun.

Mrs. Wheeler had testified the shooting took place July 30 in her secluded cottage in southern England, in the climax to an evening preceded by drinking and merriment.

Mrs. Wheeler said she was "muzzy" (muddled or confused in mind) from drink and Lord Vivian was "three sheets to the wind."

Lord Vivian, who met attractive Mrs. Wheeler 18 months ago and has been living with her, told the court earlier he was certain the shooting had been "a pure accident."

The bullets from the .45 caliber U. S. Army pistol gravely wounded Lord Vivian, striking him in the abdomen and wrist.

Electric Power Load Is Up 10%

The purchase of electric power by the city of Escanaba to distribute to its customers was 10 per cent higher for the three-month period of July, August and September than for the same period last year, it was reported today by Harvey Gernsman, city electric utility superintendent.

Escanaba purchases its electric power wholesale from the Upper Michigan Power & Light Company under a contract that will expire in 1958. The city distributes the power through its municipal electric system.

Gernsman reported that power purchases by the city for the July-September period, 1953, totaled 6,219,400 kilowatts. The purchases for the similar three-month period this year totaled 6,845,800 kilowatts, or an increase of 10 per cent.

In the quarterly report of the electric department superintendent it was noted that 73 new three-wire services were put in, and 23 temporary services (used in new building projects and remodeling) were installed.

The validity of the city's power contract with Upper Michigan Power & Light Company has been challenged by the company, which claims that no power contract is valid in Michigan for more than a 10-year period. The Power Company also asserts that the contract rate paid by the city is causing the company to lose money.

The Public Service Commission has been asked to rule on whether it has jurisdiction in determining the validity of the contract and a request for a rate revision.

Fluoridation:

Council Gives Approval; Mayor Yelland Votes 'No'

Escanaba City Council last night gave final approval to purchasing fluoridation equipment to install in the city water plant, with Mayor Harland Yelland casting the only "no" vote.

The mixing of one part of fluoride to one million parts of water is recommended by dental and medical association and public health authorities as a safe method of reducing tooth decay among children. The program was previously approved by a vote of the citizens of Escanaba.

Mayor Yelland, who has opposed fluoridation since his election last spring, said last night that he is "firmly of the conviction that the community was hoodwinked in the guise of preventive medicine." He said he is against feeding "roach poison" into the city water supply.

Equipment Cost $1.50

Only other discussion by the Council on the subject was whether it was necessary to vote on the purchase of fluoridation equipment again. The Council had previously approved purchase of the equipment from the low bidder, with directions not to ship until notified.

Manager A. V. Aronson held that Council action was required in view of the wording of the previous motion.

Cost of the equipment will be $1,150. BIF Industries, Providence, R. I., was low bidder and will now ship the fluoridation equipment.

In other business the Council referred five bids to supply the city with fire hose to the fire department for analysis and report.

Purchase Motor Grader

The low bid of Wadhams Oil Company to supply the city with 10,000 to 14,000 gallons of gasoline at .14157 cents per gallon was approved. There were two other bidders.

On the recommendation of City Engineer Loren Jenkins the Council approved the $8,300 low bid of Brehner Machinery Company, Iron Mountain, to supply the city with a motor grader which will be used in snow plowing and other street work.

The bid of Hansen and Jensen Oil Company to supply the city with tires and tubes was approved at a total cost of $2,124.91. The firm was low bidder.

Standard Transformer Company's bid of $3,174 to supply the city with electric transformers was approved on recommendation of Harvey Gernsman, electric department superintendent.

Mrs. Turek was born in Germany in 1874 and came to this country at an early age and settled at Keweenaw, Wis., where she was married to James Turek April 26, 1892. The couple celebrated their Golden Wedding Anniversary in 1942.

A Nahma resident for the past 60 years, Mrs. Turek was a member of the St. Anne's Altar Society.

Surviving are: two sons, John, Nahma; and Joseph, Portland Ore.; three daughters, Mrs. Edward Sheedlo, Nahma; Mrs. Chester Pollack, Sturgeon Bay; Mrs. Currie Brandum, Toledo; and two sisters, Mrs. Martin Okrasinski, Baltimore, Md.; Mrs. Helen Chesko, Dickson City, Penna.

The body will be taken to the Edward Sheedlo home in Nahma at 3 p. m. Sunday. The rosary will be recited at 8 that night. Burial will be at 9 Monday morning in the Nahma Cemetery with Rev. John Ryan officiating.

Funeral arrangements were in charge of the Allo Funeral Home.

Ask City Control Sewage, Rubbish

Criticizing the city's "slovenly housekeeping methods," Dr. N. L. Lindquist, 1815 Lake Shore Drive, in a communication read at last night's City Council meeting asked the city stop the flow of raw sewage into the bay near his home and halt the drift of rubbish along the shore from a former city dumping ground opposite the athletic field.

The sewage created an unpleasant odor and unhealthful condition, he reported to the Council. In addition, Dr. Lindquist advised, he had picked up more than 700 bottles and tin cans and other refuse from the shore in front of his residence property. He asked the Council to correct the condition.

City Manager A. V. Aronson told the Council that an appropriation of $2,600 has been made by the Council to finance a 500-foot extension of the "safety outlet" from the sewage pumping station. By extending the outlet into deeper water farther from shore the problem would be overcome, he said. Additional extensions could be made in later years to a total of 1,500 feet.

To Estimate Cost

The "safety outlet" is necessary to the sewage system in periods of heavy rain, the city manager said. Without such an outlet sewage would back into the mains and into basements in the south part of the city.

The question of halting the washing out of rubbish used as fill on city property opposite the athletic field was discussed. The Council asked the city manager to prepare cost estimates and a report at its next meeting.

In other business the Council: Requested preparation of a scale map showing the proposed breaking of the curbing on Stephenson Ave. asked by F. W. Schmitt, Ludington Motors, and delayed consideration to the next meeting.

Paving Requested

Approved a motion authorizing the razing of two private buildings held by the city to be dangerous and detrimental to the neighborhood. One building is in the 300 block, S. 7th St., and the other is across from the Webster school. Both are unoccupied.

Received a petition from property owners to have the city pave 10th Ave. S between 15th and 17th Streets and referred it to the city engineer for preparation of cost estimates.

Approved an appropriation of approximately $1,200 to purchase hockey boards to replace those lost in a grass fire near the athletic field last spring.

Appropriated a sum not to exceed $100 to assist in defraying the cost of sending delegates to the Municipal Employees' Retirement System meeting to be held at Lansing.

Approved transfer of an SDM

GUEST ARTIST—Henry Beard, well known organist, along with Maud Nosler, soprano soloist, will present an Organ Concert at the Bethany Lutheran Church Sunday, Oct. 10, at 8:15 p. m. Both artists are returning to Escanaba by popular request.

Approval For Building Fund Transfer Asked

Circuit Judge Glenn W. Jackson will be asked by the city of Escanaba to approve the proposed transfer of $220,000 in Catherine Bonifas money to the Escanaba Building Corporation for the purpose of financing construction of a state office building in the 300 block, Ludington St.

A resolution to this effect was adopted by the City Council at its meeting last night.

The resolution, prepared by City Attorney Denis McGinn, directs attention to the terms of the will of Mrs. Bonifas, in which $100,000 was bequeathed to apply toward construction of a city hall-court house building, and $100,000 to be used to assist in financing construction of a state office building.

Approval of the court is asked because "the Council is desirous of carrying out the intentions of Catherine Bonifas, as expressed in her will."

The $200,000 (with accumulated earnings now totaling $220,000) would be transferred to the Escanaba Building Corporation, a non-profit local organization, to finance construction of a building to be used "for a City Hall and County Court House and office space for various state, county or city agencies or departments."

The funds will be repaid to the corporation or city over a period of years through rentals, Mayor Harlan Yelland said. City Attorney McGinn said this stipulation will be acted upon by the Council before the money is transferred.

City Manager A. V. Aronson said he doubted that demolition of old buildings in the 300 block, Ludington, to make room for the proposed new state office building could be undertaken until spring.

Two Youths Held In Theft Of Auto

Two youths, 16 and 14, of Lansing and Milwaukee, were being questioned today by Menominee County sheriff's officers following their apprehension about 4 p. m. at Cedar River in connection with the theft of an auto at Menominee and the entering of two homes at Cedar River.

Deputy Sheriff Andrew Vescolani of Hermansville said the youths were hiding in the woods near Cedar River. They were cold and tired.

The youths drove away a car owned by Charles Morrison at Menominee and abandoned it Wednesday at Cedar River when it ran out of gas. Deputy Vescolani said officers are checking on a report the youths took other cars and abandoned them between Milwaukee and Menominee.

The 16-year-old youth was said by officers to be on probation at Lansing, and he is expected to be returned there.

Airport Funds Sought By City

The exclusion of Escanaba and two other U. P. cities from federal appropriations for airport improvements will bring an effort to obtain a special funds for airports under the control of Secretary of Commerce Weeks.

Escanaba City Council last night adopted a resolution addressed to Secretary Weeks, U. S. Senators Homer Ferguson and Charles Potter, and Congressman Victor Knox requesting that matching funds be made available for improvement of the Escanaba airport.

The city has appropriated $30,000 for airport improvement, notably extension of an east-west runway.

Mayor Harlan Yelland last night advised the Council that Brig. Gen. Lester Maitland, chairman of the state board of aeronautics, advised him that matching federal funds had not been appropriated for Escanaba, Ironwood and Iron Mountain.

Maitland advised, however, that five million dollars in federal funds were available for airport improvements at the discretion of the Secretary of Commerce. Mayor Yelland said he was "encouraged" that a special appropriation might be made following a telephone conversation with Sen. Potter.

Iron Mountain and Ironwood are also to submit resolutions requesting special appropriations for their airport projects.

In other business, Councilman Edward Cox suggested that the Escanaba City Council adopt a resolution protesting the proposed discontinuance of passenger train service on the C&NW Railway between Escanaba and Ishpeming.

The matter was tabled to next meeting for Councilmen to obtain additional information on the possible effect on Escanaba of the proposed reduction in passenger service. A Public Service Commission hearing on the railway's petition will be held Oct. 28-29 at Ishpeming.

Theft, Vandalism Mark Trail Of Three Juveniles

Three children of Wells today were questioned in Probate Judge William Miller's court in connection with a series of thefts and acts of vandalism in Escanaba and Wells. The parents will be brought into court later. Judge Miller told Escanaba police.

Involved in the case are two brothers, 12 and 13, and their sister, 10 years old.

Starting at about 10:30 last night police uncovered the following facts in connection with the junior crime wave:

About $17 had been stolen from a teacher in the new Wells school, and with the money the children had purchased ice cream and cigarettes, and an air rifle. In addition they stole six bicycles, of which five were recovered by police.

With the air rifle they shot holes in the windows of three homes and a garage on N. 18th St., seven lights in the alley north of Ludington St., and the glass in an office window at the S. M. Johnson Coal and Ice Company office in the 100 block, N. 7th St. They entered the Company office and took some change and keys.

In the vicinity of the Delta Hotel they entered six cars and took, among other articles, three quarts of beer.

In apprehending the youngsters, police said they believed they have solved the case of a large number of bicycle thefts in the city recently, and the disappearance of money and other articles at the Wells school.

Essay Winners Stress Appeal Of Newspapers

Second place winners in the Escanaba Daily Press essay contest on the subject, "What My Daily Newspaper Means to Me" are Mrs. Tom Brayak, Bark River, Rte. 1, open division, and Donna Lee Hendricks, 1230 Lake Shore Drive, Escanaba, student division. Their prize winning essays follow:

By MRS. TOM BRAYAK

In a word, it might actually be said my newspaper means the "world" to me, for it brings the world to my door and into my home each day. In its pages I find state, national and international news, as well as the local data on births, deaths, marriages, social and business activities, the humorous and the pathetic. And I wouldn't miss the lovable nonsense of "Blondie," "Lil Abner," "Snuffy Smith" and the various other comic strips which appeal to the universal funnybone in all of us. The scope of the daily newspaper is tremendous, covering all activities and interests: fashion, homemaking, sports, conservation, agriculture, carpentry, religion—even fiction. Then, too, the advertisements of the merchandise carried by local stores and the classified ads are also a great boon to the subscriber.

Visual appeal is offered by the many and varied photographs, whether it be of a small boy happily wending his way homeward from a successful fishing excursion or whether it depicts the horror and devastation of fire, famine or flood.

Any item relative to humanity is the legitimate field of the newspaper, for is it not truly the servant of the world? Even in the present era of radio and Television, I consider the daily newspaper, with its editorial comment, as a still greater power and genuine mold of public opinion; because it reaches into the homes of more individuals.

Yes, I genuinely like my daily

A thud against the door. A newspaper boy disappearing around the corner. Those mean so much to me as a daily subscriber and American citizen.

It is a daily convenience, delivered everyday by average, dependable boys. This newspaper creates a period of relaxation and enjoyment where I can forget the cares of school and can sit and enjoy all the stories, comics, current events and all the other interesting features.

Current events of national and international news is a great asset to my daily school events and all my school work.

Continuation of stories really makes a person wait for their newspaper to arrive to see what detailed action is about to take place.

Life in the social world is a part of the paper you just can't pass by. The wonderful feeling when you read about the marriage of a friend gives a tingle inside of you. Then there are all the ac-

Houghton Area Has First Snow

The first snow of the season fell in the Houghton area yesterday and more is expected today. The flakes melted soon after hitting the ground since the temperature was 33, and six degrees above freezing.

The coldest weather of the Fall will set in tonight and drop temperatures at the Escanaba weather bureau to 30. Surrounding areas including Brampton, Cornell and Bark River can expect freezing temperatures in the mid 20's.

Cloudy skies will clear in the Escanaba area tonight and remain clear through Thursday. The mercury will inch up to 50 during the day.

Classified ads are really a great help to those who wish to buy or sell any particular object.

Sports! Yes, they certainly are one of the most important parts of any newspaper, and the daily paper really covers it the way sports should be covered. The paper really shows praise to the home teams and helps keep their morale high.

Articles on juvenile delinquents that appear in a newspaper really hit a spot in teenagers and make them think twice before they act. We all need articles like those to make people realize how terrible some things can get.

Advertisements are an essential part of any newspaper and our daily newspaper certainly keeps us posted on the latest offerings.

You can never be sure as you open the paper if you can expect the joy and happiness of a new birth or the sadness of the death of a friend.

All this is "What my daily newspaper means to me."

London Agreement Strengthens Defense Of Western Europe

THE London conference that has brought a nine-power agreement to draw Germany politically and militarily into the Western European orbit may well be set down as one of the great events of the postwar era.

In the opinion of practiced observers, it is potentially stronger than the EDC plan killed this summer by France. For it places Britain in close alliance with continental Europe for the first time in history. That tremendous development explains why French Premier Mendes-France would in-tial this pact while opposing EDC.

Under the new agreement, West Germany will be invited to join NATO, the prime existing European defense setup.

It will also be made a signatory to the 1948 so-called Brussels treaty, which linked Britain, France, Belgium, Holland and Luxembourg in a military, economic and cultural union. Italy, too will be added to this group.

The Brussels pact members will establish an agency for control of armaments on the European continent for continental members of the Brussels groups. In addition, Germany has forsworn manufacture of atomic, biological and chemical weapons, guided missiles, bombers and large submarines.

The Bonn republic further pledged itself not to resort to force in any effort to reunify Germany or modify existing frontiers.

These limitations on German arms and national aspirations were crucial to France's acceptance of the nine-power agreement. Mendes-France actually pressed for even more, but in the end he signed the final compromise.

The French premier must be credited with having gained a lot that he sought. Yet it seems evident that detailed arrangements under an EDC pact would likewise have imposed restrictions on German armaments.

What pushed Mendes-France to acceptance of the new treaty was his understanding that the other nations, and especially Britain and the U. S., were determined to approve German rearmament and political sovereignty with or without the French.

In that determined drive, Britain's Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden, backed by the redoubtable Prime Minister, Churchill, led the way. And their ultimate willingness to involve Britain closely in continental defense affairs was the really decisive factor.

German Chancellor Adenauer deserves to be hailed for his realistic acceptance of limitations on his country's arms. He is truly European-minded and sees Germany's future best served through association with the West.

Congratulations To Rapid River Creamery

CONGRATULATIONS are in order for the Rapid River Cooperative Creamery which once again has won first prize in the mid American cheese division at the Michigan State Fair in Detroit. It is the third successive year that the Rapid River Creamery has won this distinction and the ninth year since 1937.

Major credit for the achievement goes naturally to the management of the cooperative and to the cheese maker, Adolph Miller. But credit also is due to farmers who comprise the cooperative, who provide the milk and who exert an influence in the company's affairs.

In this achievement the Rapid River Creamery has gained high honors for itself and it has enhanced the reputation of this area as a dairy producing center.

Try And Stop Me By BENNETT CERF

Vince Flaherty recalls the day a rookie photographer caused one of baseball's weirdest plays at Griffith Stadium in Washington. A runner was poised on third base, ready to score the winning tally and, when the batter lofted a towering drive to right center, it looked like it was time to rake in the marbles. Catcher Rick Ferrell braced himself for the throw from outfield, and the rookie photographer, focusing his camera, crept closer and closer behind him to catch the action at home plate.

The ball and the runner arrived simultaneously. Ferrell made a wild job and slapped the ball on the photographer's nose just as the runner's slide sent the camera flying ten feet into the air.

The camera was deposited in the nearest ash can, and the photographer, when he emerged from the hospital, was transferred to activities in women's club circles.

And oh, yes, the runner was declared out for failing to touch home plate, and ended up with a ten-day suspension and a fine of a hundred bucks!

The Doctor Says . . . Trichinosis Affects Humans as Well as Animals

By EDWIN P. JORDAN, M. D. — Written for NEA Service

One of the least-known and most-widespread diseases on the North American continent is trichinosis. The disease, caused by an animal parasite, is believed to be present in about 25 million persons and some 350,000 people acquire new infections each year.

Most of those infected do not show symptoms, but about 16,000 are likely to swallow enough parasites to produce disturbances which could be identified although only a small number of these actually are pinned down. About one person in 20 of those who have infections with symptoms dies from the disease.

Trichinosis is preventable and could be entirely eliminated. Its importance, however, has not been sufficiently well recognized although conferences of medical and public health authorities on how to combat trichinosis have been held both in 1952 and 1954.

THE DISEASE afflicts swine primarily. It is by eating pork or pork products containing these parasites in live form that human beings acquire the disease.

The disease is kept alive in swine, in large part as a result of the practice of feeding these animals with raw garbage, thus developing a kind of vicious circle.

THE CONTROL of trichinosis by means of proper garbage disposal can be accomplished either by making material infected with trichinae inaccessible to swine, by burial or sanitary land-fill, or by killing the parasites in their larval form before the infected garbage is fed to swine.

These methods are entirely practicable and laws requiring suitable garbage disposal should be adopted by those communities which have not already done so; those which have satisfactory laws should enforce them.

ASSUMING THAT IT is not possible to get rid of all pork products infected with trichinae immediately, what other safety measures can we take ourselves? One of the most important safeguards is to make sure that pork products are thoroughly cooked before eating. This destroys the parasites and while the idea of eating dead parasites is not appetizing, it does at least make the meat safe.

Freezing the meat at five degrees Fahrenheit for 20 days also kills the parasites but possibly this is not as practical for most people as the cooking method.

The latest conference on trichinosis developed a great many recommendations for the attack on this disease. Since we know how this disease can be controlled—and indeed eliminated—these measures should be followed with great vigor. All of us can help.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON—Quite a furor is being stirred up because some of the top scientists in the country are being criticized for their laxity in developing the H-bomb.

Judged by some of the comments being made in support of those scientists, it might be imagined that, unless these men are immunized from criticism hereafter, they will engage in a sit-down strike and refuse to serve their country.

But there is evidence that not all scientists believe that a man who lies to his own government on a vital security matter, when information is sought from him, is a hero. There are scientists who believe that morality does not stop at the laboratory door—nor honesty either.

DIFFERENT PICTURE

Lest the country think that scientists with Communist connections or affiliations or sympathies are in the majority inside or outside the government, evidence is presented here which paints an entirely different picture. Thus a top scientist, whose identity must for the present be withheld, says in a letter to this correspondent:

"In the recent particularly trying case of Dr. Oppenheimer, your analysis of the situation and the conclusions you have reached are receiving more support among physical scientists than you perhaps realize. They are not so vocal as those on the side, nor are they given so much to passing resolutions, but plenty of them exist and form an influential group.

"I have had many contacts with nuclear physicists at the California Institute of Technology and the University of California. I came to know Dr. Oppenheimer and served upon committees with him. He impressed me as a person of very pleasant personality and enormous ability in his field, but also as a case of almost arrested development in social problems and in his relation to constituted authority. Like Einstein, he seemed to be governed by his emotions rather than his reason in such matters, and I am not at all surprised at what has finally happened.

INCONSISTENT LIBERALS

"The Oppenheimer case leads me to a few remarks about the large group, mainly in the colleges and universities, who call themselves 'liberals'—a much abused word—and sometimes 'intellectuals,' but the irreverent public calls them 'pinks' and on occasion 'eggheads.'

"They are an amazingly inconsistent group. They make a good living out of the system of private enterprise, but then seek to undermine it by favoring all sorts of socialist ventures and enterprises. They dislike intensely McCarthy and his methods—as we all do—but go along with him in allowing individuals to set up their own standards of secrecy, regardless of government and military regulations.

"They learn nothing from experience, and the leakage of information about the atomic bomb and the loss of China, in part at least through leftist sympathizers in the Department of State, have never been taken to heart by them. Apparently, too, they have no conception of the distinction between what a man may believe and practice as a private individual and what he may believe and practice in a public position of trust. Although a man's beliefs are normally a matter of private concern, they can well bear him from many positions he might like to hold. For example, we can hardly conceive that the directors of a bank would elect to its presidency a believer in Marxian theories of finance and economics.

"There are two brief quotations which I feel might well be recommended to the collegiate self-styled 'liberals' of this country. The first is by Winston Churchill and, as I remember, it runs: 'Although socialism and communism are not the same thing, I have always found that communism always flourishes in an atmosphere of socialism.'

"The second quotation goes back to Socrates and the Athens of his day. His pet abhorrence was a group of well-educated men who, to show their assumed intellectual superiority, utilized their abilities to twist and distort the beliefs and motives of the common people until they were unrecognizable. Socrates said of these 'sophists,' as he called them: 'They delight to make the worse the better reason.'

The author of the foregoing letter was head of an important scientific body for many years, is a member of the National Academy of Sciences, a member of the French academy and a foreign associate of the Royal Society of London and an outstanding scientist in his field. ### New U.S. Export, Opera Stars, In Big Demand Across Ocean

NEW YORK —(NEA)—Opera singers used to be something America imported from Europe. Now we're exporting them, and American prima donnas and operatic heroes are creating a big demand for their talents on the other side of the ocean.

This reversal stems from World War II, when American-born and trained singers got their big chance with opera managers because imported talent was cut off. After the war, Europe began to cock an ear at America's operatic vocal cords. This year, operatically speaking, America was in full voice abroad.

The Metropolitan's blonde glamor girl, Eleanor Steber, brought a western touch to Italy when she sang the horseback-riding, gun-twirling role of Minnie in Puccini's "Girl of the Golden West" at the Florence Music Festival.

Never very successful, the Puccini opera was revived because festival managers were convinced Miss Steber could give it the proper clou-bang. She also gave it, according to reports from Florence, "the longest kiss and best horseman's in the history of Italian opera."

Europe was not surprised, since a year ago Miss Steber became the first American-born opera star in 50 years to open the Wagner festival in Bayreuth, and was compared by Vienna critics to Maria Jeritza and Lotte Lehman.

One of this year's top vocal exports was the Met's Rise Stevens, who became the toast of Milan, Italy, when she sang, acted and danced her way through the title role of "The Devil's Daughter" at the famed La Scala. It was the first time an American-born star had ever created the world-premiere of an Italian opera in Italy.

Met born Ramon Vinay, who was born in South America but trained in the U. S., opened both the Bayreuth and Holland festivals this summer for the second time. In Europe, the role of "Otello" has become almost his exclusive domain.

Another tenor, American-born Eugene Conley, was one of the original vocal exports five years ago. Another pioneer was soprano Lilly Windsor, one of the first Americans in years to receive a season's contract from the Rome Opera House.

Long-stressed Blanche Thebom, who won great success at the Vienna Music Festival this year, stopped off first in Iceland at U. S. government request to offset Communist cultural propaganda. And in England, the Met's Margaret Harshaw had revived for her the entire Wagnerian ring-cycle of four operas — not once, but twice. Until a few years ago Miss Harshaw had been singing secondary mezzo-soprano roles here—until she decided for herself she was really a dramatic soprano. Said one anonymous star, back from the export circuit: "This has finally given us the opportunity to portray the kind of roles we would otherwise have no chance to do here."

Two French Institutions Celebrate Anniversary

WASHINGTON — Two famous French institutions, the St. Cyr Military Academy and the Legion of Honor, are celebrating their 150th birthdays this summer. To commemorate the occasion, France is issuing a new stamp series, red for the Legion and blue, red, and blue-gray for the Academy.

Both school and decoration were created by Napoleon the First, says the National Geographic Society. The Little Corporal set up the "West Point of France" at Fontainebleau. Four years later (1808) he transferred it to the village of St. Cyr, near Versailles, where his future officers would be away from the distractions and diversions of his Fontainebleau court.

As it happened, the fledgling institution—dedicated to a stern regime of discipline and practical military training—was quartered in a building that had formerly housed a school for young gentlemen. This school was founded in 1686 by Madame de Maintenon, favorite of Louis XIV, to educate the daughters of poor but noble families. Before it was suppressed by the French Revolution, Napoleon's own sister had attended it.

Civilians Also Honored The Order of the Legion of Honor was established to recognize civilian as well as military service of distinction to France. It was initiated in 1802; but the first selection and distribution of the award (6,000 recipients) were not made until July, 1804.

A painting of the scene of the first formal presentation ceremony, hung in the museum at Versailles, shows Napoleon pinning the decoration on a wounded veteran's chest. In the early days, the badge of the Legion of Honor went through various changes in design, following the shifting fortunes of Napoleon and the rise and fall of empire and republican governments. Its basic form, however, has been retained—a white-enamelled star, with five double-pointed arms, linked by oak and laurel leaves. It hangs from the same bright red moire ribbon that Napoleon chose. Ribbons and trimmings of gold or silver distinguish the five classes, in their order of rank: Chevaliers, Officers, Commanders, Grand Officers, and Grand Crosses. The President of France is Grand Master of the organization.

Among today's holders are a number of noted Americans, honored for service to France during the first and second world wars. For their contributions to geographic knowledge, the National Geographic Society's senior officers, Dr. Gilbert Grosvenor and Dr. John Oliver LaGorce, were awarded the decoration during the 1930's.

Romantic Tradition St. Cyr, like the Legion of Honor, looks back on a romantic tradition of brave men and deeds of chivalry. For the many St. Cyr officers who are also of the Legion of Honor, the two traditions have merged. Typical in World War I was the gesture of St. Cyrians who offered to storm enemy strongholds in dress uniform of plumed helmets and white gloves.

St. Cyr's modern trainees look less romantic in field drab as they learn the mechanics of tanks and jeeps and tricks of uncovering buried mines. But the sacrifices they may be called on to make are no less impressive than in the old days. Of the 10,000 graduates listed in St. Cyr's old book as having died for France, nearly 800 lost their lives in the late Indochina fighting.

Edson In Washington

WASHINGTON—(NEA)—The conviction and dishonorable discharge sentence of Lt.-Col. Harry Fleming for collaborating with the Communists while a prisoner of war in Korea is going to launch at least a dozen more trials in this category. One is expected to involve a graduate of West Point.

Fleming's conviction has also raised to the boiling point a feud inside the Pentagon which has been raging on the whole question of the handling of these POW cases.

Out of the 3600 men who were prisoners of war in Korea, investigations were made against 215 of them for various, suspected illegal activities. Out of this number 78 were considered serious enough to be presented to the Dept. of Army Board on POW Collaboration, although the remaining cases are still alive and more information is being gathered on them.

From the list of 78 the Board and Dept. of Defense officials agreed that there was enough evidence to go to trial on 43, including Fleming, Cpl. Claude J. Batchelor and Cpl. Edward Dickenson who have also been convicted.

THE GENERAL OF THE COMMAND in which a man is assigned has the authority to order a man brought to trial. They have specifically refused to act on six cases, which leaves 34 still pending. Because there has been so much public and official confusion on this matter the generals with this decision to make have delayed action, fearful of bad publicity.

The conviction of Fleming, which was not considered one of the strongest cases, is expected to spur action on at least 12 other cases where there is evidence that G. I.'s either died or were maltreated because of the conduct of the suspected POW's. All of the 34 might be brought to trial. And none of the original 215 can consider himself free yet.

The dispute within the Pentagon over the handling of POW crimes involves complex issues and is bitter. The Army is irked with the Air Force for ignoring the whole matter. The private Air Force opinion is that each airman is worth such an investment in training and experience that his main mission is to get out of a POW camp alive so that he can fly again.

THIS POINT IS CONSIDERED a vital factor in future frontline Army discipline, however. The Army feels that it just cannot let a man get away with surrendering too soon or cooperating with the enemy after capture because it might encourage many more men to do the same thing later.

Many officers in the Army also feel the Marine Corps just made a public relations gesture by its trial of Col. Frank H. Schwable, which ended up in effect keeping him from becoming a general. They feel the Marines are covering up on other cases.

Within the Army there is disagreement about having allowed most of the 215 men with bad records as POW's leave the Army with honorable discharges, and giving them all of their back pay and allowances. It throws the prosecution of them into the hands of the Department of Justice, which is believed more likely to be influenced by public opinion than the Army.

HAVING ALREADY GRANTED honorable discharges and given the back pay to these men it makes it more difficult to take these benefits back if the men are found guilty later.

Another item of irritation to some Army experts is the preemptory way the Department of Defense has stepped into the picture. It took it upon itself to limit the authority of the commanding general on who should go to trial. It hasn't forced a general to call a trial. But it has said which cases he cannot send to trial.

Also within the Army there is a large group of officers who believe that there has been too much official talking which has tended to convict the POW's involved before they ever appear in court. They think that Army G-2 (Intelligence) has put too much stress on the importance of the military information POW's can give to the enemy.

It's felt that 99 per cent of the officers and men who are captured could tell everything they know and still wouldn't be telling the enemy anything he didn't already know from other sources.

Special music included an anthem by the combined Senior and Junior choirs, accompanied by Mrs. Noel Piche at the piano and Mrs. Cory Hartbarger at the organ.

The liturgy of the service was sung by Donald Nelson, student pastor.

Winning Designer Advises Women To Dress Simply

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Women's Editor

New York women are the world's best-dressed in the daytime, but for elegance after dark nobody can beat the women of Rome, says James Galanos of Los Angeles, a hitherto little-known designer who has skyrocketed to fame.

In the last month this slight, 29-year-old Greek-American has received the coveted Neiman-Marcus Award in Dallas, and has come to New York to receive the American Fashion Critics Award for his elegant and expensive feminine fashions. Since these represent the two most important fashion honors that can come to an American designer, it's little wonder that New York's concentrated fashion industry is buzzing with the question: "Who's this Galanos?"

Well, he's a frail young man in a narrow, shouldered charcoal tweed suit, pink shirt and pink satin tie — at least that was his costume when I met him. He has a diffident manner, and seems as dazed as his rival designers at the sudden blaze of glory which has surrounded him. But he does have definite ideas about how women should look, to wit:

"A well-dressed woman is always simply dressed. She doesn't depend on startling or bizarre fashions, and isn't too influenced by the mode of the moment. She knows her own type and sticks to it, knows what to accept and what to reject in the changing scene of fashions. She isn't a slave to fashion — instead she makes it her slave."

As to the geographical centers of fashion, evidenced by the women who live there, Galanos puts both New York and Rome ahead of Paris and his home town of Los Angeles.

Galanos was born in Philadelphia of Greek parents, grew up in various towns in Pennsylvania and New Jersey, began his fashion career at 18 working for Hattie Carnegie in New York at minor chores.

Miss Shoemaker Is The Bride Of A. Paul Monson

Miss Lora Irene Shoemaker of Newberry, daughter of Mrs. F. Shoemaker, Sturgis, Mich., became the bride of A. Paul Monson, Jr., son of Captain and Mrs. A. Paul Monson, St. Ignace, at a 3 p. m. candlelight ceremony Oct. 2.

The Rev. Richard Stein, pastor of the First Methodist Church of Columbus, Ohio, a cousin of the bride, assisted by Dr. Byron Hahn of Sturgis, performed the double ring service in the chapel of the First Methodist Church in Sturgis. White and orchid gladioli decorated the altar with candelabra at either side holding cathedral tapers which were lighted by Terry Monson, young brother of the bridegroom.

Before the ceremony Mrs. Joseph Sucart, a close friend of the bride, sang "O Promise Me" "Through the Years", "At Dawning", "I Love Thee" and "O Perfect Love." She was accompanied by Phyllis Martin, organist, who also played the traditional Bridal Chorus from Wagner's "Lohengrin" as the processional and Mendelssohn's Wedding March as the recessional.

Rose Pointe Lace

The bride chose a floor length gown fashioned of rose pointe lace over satin. It was designed with a fitted bodice, long, tapered sleeves, high neckline and pointed collar. The bouffant skirt was detailed with a redingote effect of the lace pattern and a panel of pleated nylon tulle. Her queen's crown, trimmed with seed pearls, held her two-tier finger veil. Her jewelry was a single strand of pearls and pearl earrings, the bridegroom's gift. She carried a white Bible covered with white roses and baby mums.

The maid of honor was Miss Elizabeth Thompson. She was dressed in a woodland violet frock with a velvet bodice and bouffant skirt of nylon tulle over taffeta. The bridesmaid, Mrs. Donald Heikkila, an aunt of the bridegroom, wore a similar gown with a satin bodice. They carried lavender and white gladioli and wore matching flowers in their hair. Jay Heikkila, flower girl, was dressed as a miniature bride. She carried a basket of lavender and white mums.

Jay Monson, brother of the bridegroom, was best man and James Knevels of Constantine, Mich., was groomsmen. Ushers were uncles of the bridegroom, Arthur Monson of Escanaba and Orne Heikkila of Mt. Morris.

Reception at Church
The bride's mother wore royal blue crepe with black accessories and a corsage of yellow roses. Mrs. Monson wore navy with

Without Touching a Tool You Can Get Up To 15% More Power From Your Engine

Shell Premium Gasoline with TCP, the greatest gasoline development in 31 years, neutralizes lead and carbon deposits that cause pre-ignition and misfiring.

All of today's gasolines contain deposit-forming compounds. In automobile engines, these deposits of lead and carbon steal power two ways:

In combustion chambers they get so hot they set off the fuel mixture prematurely. The explosion hits the piston "on the rise" — before it reaches the proper firing position. This means power is wasted, not used. The name for this pre-ignition and it happens most often when more power is actually needed — in passing or climbing a hill.

The second way these deposits steal power is by short-circuiting the spark plugs. The plugs misfire, especially with the engine accelerating or pulling hard. And when an engine isn't hitting on all cylinders, naturally gasoline and power are being wasted.

Now you can get that power back. And get it by the time you've used two tankfuls of gasoline. You do this by using Shell Premium Gasoline with TCP — called the greatest gasoline development since tetraethyl lead.

With your first gallon, TCP additive starts to break through the power barrier set up by lead and carbon deposits. It "fireproofs" the hot spots in combustion chambers, preventing pre-ignition. Power works for you again! It changes the deposits on spark plugs so they no longer short-circuit. You get a full spark again — the plug fires every time. Your engine smooths out and the fuel pays off in power.

Before you've finished your second tankful, Shell Premium with TCP has done what no gasoline could do before: It has tuned your engine to new power — and automatically without tools. You'll have up to 15% more power than you may be getting now.

TCP is a Shell-discovered additive carefully blended into Shell Premium Gasoline. There's nothing like it for keeping harmless the deposits that constantly build up in combustion chambers and on spark plugs. To keep your engine tuned as only TCP additive can do it, buy Shell Premium Gasoline with TCP when you fill your tank. Remember, the only place you can get it is at Shell Stations.

pink accents and a pink rose corsage. Mrs. Peter Monson of Escanaba, grandmother of the bridegroom, was attired in a navy dress with mauve trim. Her corsage also was pink roses.

There is a possibility that a variety of cactus may be growing in the Huron Mountains of Marquette County, according to Miss Elzada Clover, University of Michigan botanist.

Construction has begun on a dormitory building at Washington Harbor on Isle Royale to supplement facilities available at the Windigo Inn.

A downstate manufacturer has announced development of a new hunting coat with "bullet resistant protection." Installed in the coat are five Marine Corps fibre glass armor plates "offering a new measure of protection from ricochets, wild spent bullets and small arms fire."

Checks paid for pine cones in the Crystal Falls district have been a business stimulant in that community. It is expected that the Conservation Department will have issued up to 500 checks representing more than $10,000 for pine cones by the time buying is discontinued at Crystal Falls.

Miss Laurette Young, Southfield, Mich., the new women's national archery champion, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. N. R. Young, the latter a former Calumet resident.

Slim Chance For Record Fire Figure

There is a possibility—although it is extremely remote—that a new all-time low record for forest and grass fires may be set in the Upper Peninsula this year.

Actually, however, the odds are heavily against such an eventuality in view of the dry October weeks ahead and the large numbers of people who will be in the woods at this critical time of the year.

Record Set In 1951

The lowest forest fire year on record in the Northern Peninsula was 1951 when 138 fires burned 734 acres above the Straits. There already have been more fires this year—229—but they have burned fewer acres—729.8, or only 4.2 acres below the record minimum. Just one fire of any appreciable extent would shoot this year's total acreage burned beyond the 1951 total.

During the past three weeks, however, there has been only one fire reported in the entire Upper Peninsula, and it blackened only one-tenth of an acre. Heavy rainfall throughout the Upper Peninsula during the entire month of September played a major part in keeping the totals down this year.

U. P. Officer Impressed By Virginia Plan

WAKEFIELD—Conservation officer G. M. Dahl of Wakefield, is highly impressed with a scheme that is being employed by the Virginia Forest Service.

He reported that Virginia passes out a packet containing pine seeds with every hunting license sold in that state. Dahl received a sample packet from Roy Hanson, forester for the Roddis Veneer Company.

Directions on the package tell hunters what to do: "While in the woods, in open places on good soil where shade is not heavy, scrape away the leaves on a place as large as your hat. Drop two or three pine seeds and press in the ground with your foot. Next spring, a new pine tree may start growth. The owner of the land will appreciate your thoughtfulness. You will help re-forest Virginia." "The plan appealed to me immensely," Dahl commented.

habits of deer, relatively little is known about the whitetail's summer dietary picture.

In order to shed more light on this aspect of deer behavior, Louis Verme, biologist at the Cusino Wildlife Experiment Station here, has set up a "summer" (or non-winter) deer feeding experiment. Last July, he had 20 adult deer and seven fawns placed in a 40-acre enclosure near here. They will be kept under observation until December, when they will be live-trapped and placed in a winter enclosure for a continuing study of winter habits and requirements. In the meantime, observations should provide considerable information about deer food preferences in non-winter months.

The deer were weighed prior to being placed in the summer enclosure. They will be weighed again before being removed to the winter experiment area to see if the summer range has produced any significant weight differential which would indicate if the area is satisfactory for summer range. It certainly should be, because it represents, theoretically at least, the maximum type of summer range—a moist, rich site with mostly aspen overstory and plenty of light falling on the forest floor. With red maple, junberry, willow, wild raisin and other shrubs, the enclosed area is regarded as typical of much of the summer deer range in the western Upper Peninsula.

The density of population—more than one deer for every two acres—is considered extremely high.

This year, 10 acres of the area was cut over and 25 cords of usable pulp wood (all aspen) was removed. This should make for extremely large root succession, providing good food for deer. Thus, Verme hopes to learn, among other things, whether cutting will increase the carrying capacity of the area. Because of its overstory, aspen doesn't produce much food for deer, and it may be that the wildlife food situation in the Upper Peninsula can be bettered by encouraging removal of aspen on certain sites. Verme expects that his experiment will yield some important statistics on this phase of deer management.

Plans call for an additional 10 acres to be cut in the enclosure each year for the next three years until the entire plot has been cut. This will permit direct and controlled observations on plant succession over a four-year period.

The experiment also is expected to turn up incidental information on deer behavior—how the animals react in close quarters, family relationships, etc.

STEUBEN — A record-sized western fox snake has been taken near this Schoolcraft County village.

The snake measured five feet, two inches in length, which is two inches longer than the longest on record in North America, as listed by Karl P. Schmidt and D. Dwight Davis in their "Field Book of Snakes of the United States and Canada."

Two-Hearted River Yielding 'Bow Catches

NEWBERRY — A number of small rainbows and a few large stragglers already have been taken during the fall rainbow run on the Two-Hearted River in Luce County, according to Leland Anderson, Newberry, district fisheries supervisor.

The smaller 'bows have been running between eight and 12 inches while the larger ones have gone from two to five pounds. They were hitting best on yellow flatfish, sizes 4 to 6. Anderson said the run is not yet in full swing.

He added that "a few nice Menominees were also taken." Perch Lake, also in Luce County, is giving up some good rainbow catches to trolls using "cowbells."

Fall Rainbow Trout Fishing Exciting Sport In Lakes And Streams Of Upper Peninsula

BY TED BENTZ

Unfortunately many fly fishermen, under the erroneous impression that good stream and lake fishing has passed, hang up their fishing rods when the general trout season closes.

This is something like eating the neck and wings of a chicken and leaving the breast and legs. For fall rainbow fishing can provide you with most exciting sport when the fish, like yourself, find the insects with greatly increased vim and vigor. The cooler weather does just that. The special season is open throughout October and November.

In Marquette County, you may fish for the prized 'bows in Angeline, Witch, Twin, Squaw, Sporely, Nash and Johnson Lakes, the Hoist and McClure storage basins of the Dead River, Chocoyay River down from Highway M28, the Carp and Iron Rivers.

In Alger County, you have Au Train, Miners, Mosquito, Rock and Sand Rivers. In Baraga County you may fish Huron, Ravine, Silver and Slate Rivers, as well as Fence Lake.

In Chippewa County, you have Pendill's Creek and Pine River. In Dickinson, Hamilton, Louise and Mary Lakes. In Gogebic, Black, Little Carp and Big Carp, Maple and Big Presque Isle Riv-

State Planning U. P. Timber Wolf Survey

How many timber wolves remain in the Upper Peninsula?

No one seems to have any definite idea, but the Conservation Department hopes to get a better concept of timber wolf numbers by conducting a Peninsula-wide survey throughout the forthcoming winter.

Report Next Spring

Dave Arnold, Lansing, predator specialist for the Conservation Department, stated during a recent visit to the Upper Peninsula that conservation officers, foresters, woodworkers and others who see either timber wolves or wolf signs during the winter will be asked to notify conservation authorities. Information gained in this manner will be utilized in making a report in wolf populations in the Northern Peninsula next spring.

Several years ago, Dr. Adolph Seebler, formerly of Lake Linden, now a resident of Oklahoma, estimated that there were only five or six families of wolves in Michigan, all of them in the Upper Peninsula. (Not a single timber wolf has been reported in the Lower Peninsula since 1914, when a Crawford County man said he saw one.)

Six Taken In August

In spite of the low estimates, Arnold pointed out that trappers took six timber wolves in the Upper Peninsula during last August for the highest total for a single month in several years. Four of the wolves were bountied in Alger County by Toivo Haapala, 67-year-old Traunk trapper.

Conservation authorities throughout Michigan are voicing strong objection to the state law enacted in 1935 providing a $20 bounty on female wolves and $15 for males. Arnold stated.

Represent Wilderness

"We would like to keep what we have for what they represent," he said. "If we don't have wolves, we don't have wilderness."

Arnold said the decline in timber wolves is not entirely due to trapping. "The changing of woodland to brushland discourages development of timber wolves and encourages development of coyotes and foxes," he said.

"Most sportsmen won't set out to shoot or trap wolves—they just stumble across them, and by law are entitled to a bounty. But it seems silly that we should do anything to encourage killing the few we have left," he added.

Menominee 'Coon Hunting Issue Solved

MENOMINEE — Game officials again are hoping the recently opened small game season will result in cropping of a large number of raccoons in Menominee County, where the ring-tailed rascals have established themselves as quite a nuisance over the past few years.

The hunting season on 'coon opened Oct. 1 and extends to Dec. 1 throughout the Upper Peninsula. It usually attracts few followers in the Northern Peninsula, except in places like Menominee County where high 'coon populations tempt hunters to indulge in this sport.

Department Makes Exception

'Coons are nocturnal creatures, and hunting success is best at night—with lights. That posed a local problem in view of the obvious danger 'coon hunters faced in coming under suspicion as deer "shiners."

The Conservation Department has solved the problem by issuing permits to Menominee County sportsmen to allow them to carry two-celled flashlights while hunting raccoons. A permit is issued for a specific hunt only.

Exciting Sport

Aside from "trout" fishing, all winter long there are panfish to be taken. And panfish, taken on wet flies or nymphs, provide an exciting sport. Fred Winter, Marquette, recently got good results with a red ant wet fly. He not only caught bass, but several nice perch. In panfishing, however, a three-way swivel is not really necessary. A small B or buck shot pinched on to your leader will sink your fly quickly as you drift in a boat. But the three-way swivel method has proved most effective, even if you cast out from shore and retrieve repeatedly. On non-trout waters, the bass season closes Dec. 31.

In the event you do not have any wet flies or nymphs handy, simply cut most of the hackle from a dry fly. And if one pattern doesn't work, do not hesitate to try others. In wet flies, usually the darker patterns (gray, black, dark brown, etc., with a red tail) are most effective, with red or yellow colors after the ice has formed.

Since a streamer is supposed to simulate a minnow, most any of them that look like minnows in this area will take fish. But in lakes you must keep them moving, while in streams the current itself, with an occasional twitch from your arm, does that.

Partridge Hunting In U. P. Held Tougher Proposition This Season Than In 1953

Central Area Looks Better Than Expected

The first week of the small game season in the Upper Peninsula has generally borne out pre-season predictions—with some exceptions.

For the most part, hunters found ruffed grouse shooting a tougher proposition than it was last season, but in some areas partridge hunting proved better than was anticipated.

A notable example is the Marquette-Delta-Alger region, where hunters apparently were getting more shooting than they had bargained for.

Hunting along the Marquette-Alger County line, Edward Foye, Sr., and his son, Edward Foye, Jr., both of Marquette, reported seeing 13 birds and bagging eight on opening day. After two and a half days of hunting in that area, they had seen 25 partridge and shot 13. (They also reported seeing 33 deer in the same two and a half days.) Several other hunters in this area reported similar success.

Howard Eldred, Escanaba, district game manager, reported that he regarded ruffed grouse hunting as being better than was expected in his area.

Definite Downturn

In other areas, however, the partridge population appeared definitely down from the last few years. Robert Rafferty, Baraga, district game manager, stated that while partridge shooting had picked up in the past few days, the pre-season outlook for fewer birds this year was pretty well substantiated throughout most of the western Upper Peninsula.

Otto DeWaard, Newberry, district game manager, said partridge hunting in the east end was decidedly poorer than it has been over the last few years. He added, however, that experienced hunters going into good habitat still were collecting their share of birds.

Sharp-Tail Picture

As in past seasons, it undoubtedly will be shown again this year that partridge shooting will improve as the season wears on and the foliage disappears. By then, however, many small game hunters already will have become disgusted with their fortunes and hung up their scatterguns for the season, thus depriving themselves of some of the most favorable shooting.

For sharp-tail hunters, the picture was probably even brighter than was anticipated. Except for the west end, where Rafferty said sharp-tailed grouse hunting hasn't been too good in the Topaz-Matchwood-Ewen area, gunning for these birds has proved profitable throughout the Upper Peninsula.

Duck Hunting Situation

Eldred reported the sharp-tail hunting in Marquette, Delta and Alger Counties to be as good this season as it was last year, which was a good year in comparison with seasons after 1940. DeWaard said shooting for "sharpies" in the east end measured up to pre-season predictions.

SOME CONNECTED, SOME DIDN'T—Stewart Montgomery, Detroit, was among the more successful ruffed grouse hunters in the Upper Peninsula on opening weekend. Aided by his four-year-old pointer, Nip, he collected three partridge on opening day in the Ensign area of Delta County and added two more the next day. Montgomery has hunted partridge in the Rapid River region for the past four seasons. —(Mining Journal Photo.)

Duck hunting was reported poor in the west end. Rafferty said the district probably didn't produce as many local ducks this year as last year and added that reports indicate not many flight ducks have dropped in yet.

Few Jacksnipe Taken

Along the Portage Marsh and in other areas of Delta County, duck hunting has been good, according to Eldred. He said a few flight ducks—some redheads and canvasbacks and appreciable numbers of bluebills—already have made their appearance there. Eldred also noted that a few jacksnipe are being taken incidental to duck shooting in Delta County.

A checking station maintained at the well-known Munuscong waterfowl grounds near Sault Ste. Marie furnished data showing the duck hunting to have been disappointing there, DeWaard said. But he noted that otherwise hunting for ducks has been pretty good in the east end generally. The Germfask area is producing its quota of geese.

Reports of woodcock hunting have been scattered, with no indications of heavy concentrations of this species anywhere in the Upper Peninsula.

One of the impressive aspects of the season to date has been the large number of bow and arrow hunters afield in the Northern Peninsula this year. Rafferty reported more archery this year than last. Eldred said his district has more archers this year than he has ever seen there before. And DeWaard also commented that there are more bow and arrow shooters in his district than have been observed in any previous season.

In general, it appears that ruffed grouse hunting should improve as the leaves fall and that duck hunting also should get better when the big flights of migrants come down from the north.

RETURN OF THE NATIVE—Pine marten, an old wildlife resident of the Upper Peninsula who has long since disappeared, is scheduled to be reintroduced in this area. Canadian trappers will attempt to live-trap 20 to 30 of the valuable fur-bearers in the White River area of western Ontario for release in the Upper Peninsula.

Huron, Porky Mountains Seen As Release Sites For Marten

Pine martens scheduled to be re-introduced into the Upper Peninsula from Canada probably will be released either in the Huron Mountains of Marquette County or in the Porcupine Mountains.

The Conservation Department earlier this week announced that trappers in the White River area of western Ontario (the region is located across Lake Superior almost due north of Marquette) plan to live-trap between 20 and 30 of the little furbearers for release in the Upper Peninsula.

Delivery After Oct. 15

Dr. S. C. Whitlock, Lansing, in charge of game research for the department, said later in the week in Marquette that delivery of the first group of martens—probably 10 or 12 of them—could be expected anytime after Oct. 15. Plans call for the animals to be transported by air from White River to Sault Ste. Marie, where game officials will pick the martens up and transport them to the release site.

There is a possibility that the animals may be released in some area other than the Huron or Porcupine Mountains. Dr. Whitlock said he indicated that those two sites were being considered because they are relatively isolated. Because the marten is a great traveler it is desirable to place the introduced animals in an isolated area to help confine them so that they would stand better chances for propagation.

Other Possible Sites

Among the other areas which might prove favorable release sites are the Perch Lake district in Iron County, which once was regarded as good marten habitat, the Keweenaw Peninsula and the Grand Marais area. It is very unlikely that the animals would be released anywhere in the Upper Peninsula east of Alger County, however.

At one time martens ranged through much of the Upper Peninsula but logging operations removed the heavy forest cover this species demands. In more recent years, however, some of this forest area has grown back to the point where it is now conceivable that martens could survive there.

Increasing In Canada

Dr. Whitlock said the marten population in Canada is increasing naturally and that the rise in numbers is attributed to the changing forest conditions.

He said the animals are trapped commercially in parts of Canada and that they are very easy to take in traps. He commented that martens have been taken alive in box type traps in the Algonquin Park wilderness area of Ontario by trappers who used — of all things — sardines and strawberry jam for bait.

Inasmuch as martens breed in the early summer and carry their young no less than 11 months, it is likely that any female martens brought into the Upper Peninsula from Canada would bear litters late next spring. Dr. Whitlock stated.

Delta County Potato Show Is Set For October 21

Large Number Of Entries, Adult And 4-H, Expected

By J. L. HEIRMAN
The Delta County Potato Show will be held October 21. We are looking for a large entry of samples from both adult and 4-H growers. Certified seed growers will exhibit a sample of 128 potatoes, uniform in size and shape, and free from bruises and disease. Tablestock growers will exhibit a bushel of U. S. No. 1 potatoes, and a sample of 32 potatoes, uniform in size and shape and free from bruises and disease. The 4-H members will show a 32 tuber sample the same as adult tablestock growers but will not exhibit a bushel of tablestock. More detailed information will be going out to the growers through the mail.

Cow Testing Is Sound Business

By CHARLES J. LITTLE
Cow-testing can mean to you what it has meant to many farmers who have built more productive herds by following sound herd management practices. Adopt an economical feeding plan to guide you in feeding for more milk and making best use of home grown feeds. Follow a culling program to help you know which are your best cows and which ones to cull out. Have a long-time breeding plan to raise the quality and production of your herd. A good testing program can result in more milk, more butterfat and more net profit for you, too. Cow testing for production is an investment, not an expense. It will be true in your case, too, if you are not testing now. Save On Feed Costs Cow-testing can mean a sound, economical and profitable feeding program for your herd. A dairy cow produces milk and butterfat economically only if she is fed according to her capacity to produce. If she doesn't get enough feed, she is not producing as much as she might. If she is getting too much feed, part of it is wasted. Many good cows are underfed and many poorer cows are overfed. The amount of milk and butterfat each cow produces determines the amount of feed she needs for economical production. Many dairymen have saved their testing fees many times over in a few months though feed saved and increased milk and butterfat.

Culling the Boarders Cows that do not pay their way take part or all of the profit made in good cows. Do you know which cows in your herd are really unprofitable? If you have a cow testing service, you do. But unless you have this regular check-up, you have no way of knowing. The appearance of milk in the pail isn't enough. Some cows are short milkers; others are persistent milkers. The only accurate way to judge is by a cow's yearly record made from regular once-a-month testing for milk and butterfat. It is expensive to raise heifer calves to freshening age. Selecting only heifers from the best cow families, as shown by test records, will save money. Sound Breeding Program Why is it dairymen have profitable herds that weather low prices and hard times? It's because they use their test record to locate outstanding brood cows. They also select good sires with record of production on both sides of the pedigree. And they use proved sires, or the sons of proved sires, whenever possible. These dairymen have joined artificial breeding associations because they have found that good breeding pays off at the milk pail. Cow-testing should include a breeding as well as a feeding and culling program. In this way, tests help you build a more profitable herd of cows.

Creosote Is Not To Blame For Disease Crested posts, once thought to cause X-disease in cattle, have been cleared of any blame. Dr. Frank Thorp, research pathologist at Michigan State College's agricultural experiment station, reveals that studies show no connection between the disease and American Creosote. He explains that the misunderstanding came about when cattle were in contact with creosote at the same time they had access to high-pressure greases. These high-pressure greases that cattle lick off machinery and tractors contained chlorinated naphthalenes—one of the real causes of X-disease. Thorp headed the national committee which coordinated investigations into the disease and the effect of creosote.

weeks (when weather permitted). We will have several good yields to compete for Upper Peninsula and State honors this year. The dry spell in the summer did not hold down yields too much. Checking yields doesn't mean that we just help a farmer by digging a few rods of potatoes. It gives us an opportunity to look over his potatoes and make some suggestions for improvement in the future. Most of the farmers have questions to ask. We feel it's time well spent.

We are happy to be host to the Director of Agriculture, George McIntyre and his commission who will hold a two day session here in Delta County this month. If time permits, we will take them on a tour of some of the farms.

George McIntyre at one time was dairy specialist in the Upper Peninsula. Many farmers will recall the purebred bull campaign he carried out during the time he was with us.

This is National Fire Prevention Week. I know that many farmers are still very busy working on the fields, but on rainy days, it might be well to check around the farm buildings to see if there are any farm fire hazards. Check the farm wiring. Is it still in good condition? Make sure the electric wiring is not overloaded. Be sure matches are out of reach of children. Give them a chance to grow up!

This is the time of the year when the dairyman has young calves from his fall freshening cows. A few tips on feeding the calves. One pound of milk for each ten pounds of live weight—this milk divided into two feedings. A hundred pound calf would get ten pounds of milk each day. Keep young calves in individual pens that are clean and dry for the first few weeks. Allow calves to have grain and hay after the first week. Water should also be made available on a "help yourself" basis.

With continuing high feed prices in prospect for the coming winter barn feeding season, every dairyman should cull his herd a little closer.

It just doesn't pay to keep cows that do not make a good profit over feed cost. The low producer takes just as much feed for body maintenance and about as much labor as the same size cow that produces a higher return over the price of the feed she eats. The price of concentrates, the roughage supply available on the farm as well as the need for barn room for the new calves are a few reasons why dairymen should cull low producers, cows that are not paying their way. It's better to eliminate the unprofitable cows now than to wait until the farm feed supply is low. With the cow population increasing, don't look for cheap feed ahead at this time.

Now Is The Time To Take Samples Of Soil To Test
All agricultural agencies in Delta county urge farmers, who want soil tests on which to plan their 1955 lime and fertilizer program, to take their soil samples or have them taken between October 1 and November 15, according to J. L. Heirman, county agricultural agent.

Heirman points out that the taking of soil samples during this period will be to the advantage of everyone concerned. The laboratory will avoid the rush that results from spring soil sampling with the always urgent demand for an immediate report. The agricultural agent will have ample time to make the lime and fertilizer recommendations and get them to the farmer. The important matter of record keeping in the A. S. C. office will be simplified. Most important of all, the farmer will get his report back at an early date and can order lime and fertilizer according to the needs of his soil.

Loans For Soil-Water Conservation Available

Soil and water conservation loans are available to eligible farmers in Delta and Schoolcraft counties, J. C. Young, County Farmers Home Administration supervisor said this week. The loans may be used to carry out measures for soil conservation, water development, conservation, and use, and drainage. This will include the construction and repair of terraces, dikes, ditches, ponds and tanks the establishment and improvement of permanent pastures, basic application of lime and fertilizer, tree planting, well drilling, and the purchase of pumps and other irrigation equipment. The new loan program was made possible by legislation recently passed by the 83rd Congress.

Recent Legislation Soil and water conservation loans may be made from funds supplied by private lenders and insured by the government or from funds appropriated by Congress. Loans from appropriated funds will be made only when insured funds are not available. Loans, either direct or insured, will only be made when the applicant is unable to obtain the credit he needs at reasonable rates and terms from other sources. The Farmers Home Administration is authorized to insure loans up to a total of $25,000,000 each fiscal year. In addition, for fiscal 1955, the Congress appropriated $11,500,000 for this type of assistance.

Eligibility To be eligible for a soil and water conservation loan, a farmer must have sufficient experience or training to indicate that he has reasonable prospects of conducting successful farming operations and be unable to obtain the necessary credit on reasonable terms and conditions from private and cooperative sources.

Non-profit associations such as incorporated water associations, mutual water and drainage companies, irrigation and drainage districts, and soil conservation districts are eligible for a loan when they are unable to obtain adequate credit elsewhere and meet certain other conditions. For example, associations to be eligible must be primarily engaged in extending to their members services directly related to soil conservation, water conservation and use, or drainage of farm land. The loans will be scheduled for repayment within the shortest period consistent with the ability of the borrower to repay. No loan will be scheduled for repayment over a period which exceeds the useful life of the improvement or the security, whichever is less. In no case will the repayment period on loans to individuals exceed 20 years. Loans to associations will be repaid on the same basis as individual loans but in exceptional cases can be amortized over periods up to 40 years. Each borrower will be required to refinance the unpaid balance of his loan when he is able to obtain a loan at reasonable rates and terms from other sources.

Individuals can borrow amounts up to $25,000. It is expected that the average loan to a farmer will be less than $5,000. Water facility loans last year averaged $4,500. Loans to associations have a ceiling of $250,000. All loans will be secured by the best lien obtainable on chattels or real estate to the extent necessary to adequately protect the Government's investment.

Where To Apply Applicants will obtain whatever technical assistance they need from the Soil Conservation Service, other agencies, individuals and firms. Technical assistance of this sort from the Farmers Home Administration will be limited to a review of the engineering and economic soundness of the improvements to be financed. The Farmers Home Administration will also take whatever steps are necessary to make sure that loans are used for authorized purposes and that the construction carried on with loans funds meets required standards.

When necessary, farmers who use loan funds to finance major land adjustments and extensive reorganizations of their farm business will receive assistance from the county supervisors of the Farmers Home Administration in the development and execution of sound farm and home plans.

Changes Sought In Election Laws

LANSING — As soon as the Nov. 2 general election is over, a combination of legislators and interested local officials will move quickly toward a program of election law changes in Michigan.

This was indicated by Sen. Clyde H. Geerlings (R-Holland), chairman of a legislative study committee. He said no reforms would be proposed until after Nov. 2 to avoid complicating the fall political campaign. Any changes would have to be voted by next year's Legislature.

An advisory committee will meet Nov. 10-11 to draft suggestion changes in the law and submit them to the legislative group.

Among the problems being considered, Geerlings said, are changes in the method of applying for ballots. He said that under present law residents of communities under 5,000 population do not need to sign an application form to obtain a ballot. This encourages the voting of dead persons' names, the committee said.

The committee, Geerlings said, is considering reducing the size of precincts, such as one precinct to each 800 persons, or 400 voters per voting machine.

It also is considering proposals for changes in the recount law, tighter definitions of the rights and qualifications of challengers, revision of registration lists and stiffer requirements for minor parties to retain their ballot positions.

Kelvinator Strike Settled In Detroit

DETROIT — After 65 days the strike at the American Motors Corp. has been settled.

Management and the CIO Mechanics Educational Society came to terms Wednesday without any change in the company's plan to transfer some operations to Grand Rapids.

The union called out its 1,700 members on strike Aug. 2 protesting what it called lack of consultation on the transfer plans.

Production of ice cream cabinets, home freezers and beverage coolers is being transferred from the Kelvinator plant here to Grand Rapids. About 600 men will be laid off here and about an equal number hired at Grand Rapids.

The strike-ending agreement recognizes the right of the company to determine the location of its production. There is to be prior discussion with the union on any future changes.

The union pledged that it would not call any future strikes until at least 15 days after grievance procedure has been exhausted.

Caterpillar Epidemic Dies Out In Michigan

LANSING — Forest tent caterpillars, out in epidemic strength for the past three years, are on the decline in Michigan, the State Conservation Department reported today.

It said the epidemic should be about ended in a year or so if the infestation follows its usual 10-year cycle.

The caterpillars, defoliated trees in northern Michigan and made the highways slippery during their peak periods.

State foresters will start next week on a month-long survey in the upper and northern lower peninsulas to determine the extent of the decline and look for places where local outbreaks can be expected next spring. One such build-up was reported this year in parts of Delta County.

Mrs. Oswald rattled her demitasse, used it as a gavel to call the meeting to order.
"I have been thinking this matter over," she announced. "Outsiders are present and must be completely satisfied. We do not care to have more talk later. Therefore I have decided that Mrs. Argyle is incompetent to handle the investigation. Tomorrow I intend calling in the State Police. Or at least some outside competent officials."

Jim could recognize an intentional bombshell when it was tossed. He tried to read the meaning of the various expressions of surprise on faces which quickly assumed the blankness of disappointment and a disagreement which must at all costs never be expressed openly.

He waited for Sheriff Agnes to protest, but it was only Mrs. Hilton who ventured a question. "Really, Mrs. Oswald, is that necessary?"

"I wouldn't do it otherwise," the old woman snapped. "I want this matter cleared up entirely, Mrs. Hilton. I want no after-effects."

A member of the family dead, Jim thought. And the remaining members who might be involved sat over cups of coffee and planned coldly. No sigh of grief. Were they too hardened or too well schooled for that?

Mrs. Hilton looked across at Jim and smiled. "But it is necessary to call in more outsiders?" she asked. "We have Mr. Dunn with us, who I understand is a professional. Why not let him make what investigations you feel Aggie is incapable of conducting?"

For the fraction of a second, Jim saw a gleam of triumph in Mrs. Oswald's eyes. He realized she had deliberately jockeyed the situation so someone would make that very suggestion. But she had learned not to give it without a show of resistance, even when it was her own desire which had been suggested. "Mr. Dunn is employed by Mrs. Kit," she said. "That fact might prejudice him in her favor." A diamond-studded claw reached for a brandy glass.

Jim took the opportunity to catch the old woman's eye. He winked at her.

Mrs. Oswald coughed. She put the glass down.

Jim looked at Sheriff Agnes. The woman's coffee cup shook in her strong fingers, but she voiced no objection. "Mrs. Kit is my client," Jim said. "I intend to make a full investigation anyway." Dunn blam ed the company for the almost stilted words.

Mrs. Oswald pressed ahead. "However, if it was agreed among us that you were in charge, certain information and facilities would be available. There would be a cooperation which I do not think you would have otherwise."

"True enough," Jim admitted. "But suppose there would be expected an equal amount of cooperation on my part? In other and blunter words, I'd be expected to suppress anything which could be considered detrimental to the Carlson family?" "Not at all," Mrs. Oswald lied. "We all want the whole truth, of course."

Jim Dunn awakened suddenly from a restless, dream-ridden sleep. A glance at his luminous watch told him it was two-thirty. He blamed the ghastly hour for his anxiety, for his sudden wakefulness, his owl-eyed awareness.

Nominees Clash Over Highways

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Michigan's highways, a major political issue, brought a bitter clash between Gov. Williams and his Republican foe, Donald S. Leonard, Wednesday.

Williams, endorsing a $500,000-000 bond issue for road building, said, "Republican one-party control" of highways has led to a "hit and miss, planless policy."

The bond issue failed to get on the Nov. 2 election ballot.

Leonard charged that Williams wants "personal control" of the motor vehicle fund and the proposed bond issue in order to "build political roads in Michigan."

Leonard called the highway bond idea "Republican - proposed" and again accused Williams of "inconsistency."

Williams spoke on TV at Grand Rapids, Leonard at Owosso.

Elsewhere on the campaign fronts Patrick V. McNamara, Democratic candidate for the Senate, demanded a senatorial investigation of a $160,000,000 tank contract transfer while his Republican Sen. Homer Ferguson, defended President Eisenhower's farm program.

Chevrolet Occupies Space At Willow Run For Big Parts Depot

DETROIT — Chevrolet Division of General Motors Corp. announced plans to establish a big parts and accessories depot at nearby Willow Run.

Chevrolet will lease 896,400 square feet of space and construct an additional 125,000 square feet, giving the new depot more than a million feet of floor space.

The leased area will be acquired from GM's Hydra-Matic Transmission Division, which bought the old Ford Motor Co. airplane plant at Willow Run from Kaiser Motors after fire destroyed GM's transmission plant in suburban Livonia.

T. H. Keating, Chevrolet general manager, said "Chevrolet employment needs at Willow Run may ultimately reach nearly 1,000 jobs."

He said air freight facilities at the big, adjoining Willow Run airport were a factor in choosing the location.

Keating said establishment of the new depot "is the first step in a nationwide streamlining of Chevrolet's parts and accessories department."

Cowboy Actor Balks At Home On Range With Gail Russell

SANTA MONICA, Calif. — Guy Madison, the cowboy actor, spent too much time home on the range, he complained in winning a divorce Wednesday from actress Gail Russell.

Madison testified it was often necessary for him to cook meals and clean the house because his wife "had no interest in keeping up the home, wouldn't allow servants and showed no interest in my work."

The 32-year-old actor won an interlocutory decree on a cross-complaint as Miss Russell, 29, dropped her suit. Her attorney said she was too emotionally upset to appear in court. The couple married in 1949 and separated last year.

Madison agreed to pay his wife $12,000 cash plus minimum alimony of $2,400 a year for the next 10 years, or until she remarries.

Liberace Says He's Too Busy To Marry; Dates Joanne Rio

HOLLYWOOD — Liberace says he's keeping company with a comely 22-year-old dancer but as for marriage, "My kind of schedule wouldn't leave any time for that."

Video's virtuoso of the piano says he's too busy to wed now. But he admitted in an interview that a year from now he might give it serious consideration.

His frequent companion lately has been Joanne Rio, whom he squires to parties and premieres. He also dates other girls, the 34-year-old pianist said. But friends point out that Joanne is the only one he brings home to mother.

Joanne says: "We are very fond of each other, but it hasn't become any more serious than that . . . the question of marriage hasn't been discussed."

Coal Gas Nearly Fatal To Family

PORT HURON — Coal gas, seeping from a furnace, almost proved fatal to a minister's wife and their four children Wednesday. The family moved here from Gibraltar, Mich., only six days ago.

Mrs. Marjorie McKenna, wife of the Rev. Paul McKenna, and their children, Ruth, 15 months; Dwight 3; Ivan, 5, and Paula, 8, were revived by firemen.

Mr. McKenna started a furnace fire before leaving for First Congregational Church, where he is minister of Christian education.

Mrs. McKenna was bathing the younger children upstairs when the baby suddenly went limp. She and the other children became dizzy. She ran downstairs, opened a door and called firemen. Dwight and Ruth were unconscious when they arrived.

Firemen said a plugged chimney caused the fumes to leak.

Donald Helman And Carol Popko Marry

Miss Carol Jean Popko, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Popko, Mercer, Wis., and Don Helman, Gladstone, were united in marriage on Saturday, Sept. 25, at the Zion Lutheran Church of Mercer. Rev. Schlei performed the ceremony.

Bouquets of mixed flowers in autumn shades decorated the church. James Prosek of Hurley, Wis., sang, "O Perfect Love" and the "Lord's Prayer."

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was lovely in a floor length gown of white nylon net and rose point lace over satin. The bouffant skirt was highlighted by a pointed lace peplum and the bodice of rose point lace was accented by a sheer nylon yoke with clipped lace appliques and long tapering sleeves. Her lace banded veil of imported pure silk illusion was caught to a lace bonnet outlined with bead and pearl detail. She carried a bridal bouquet of roses centered with an orchid.

Miss Eleanor Brunner, a close friend of the bride, was maid of honor. She wore a floor length gown of pink net over taffeta. The strapless lace bodice was trimmed with tucked netting over which was a lace bolero with a peter pan collar and matching net mitts. Mrs. Anderson wore a blue net over taffeta gown stemming from a lace peplum, the strapless bodice was topped by a lace bolero with a manderin neckline. Matching net mitts and half hat with pearl detail enhanced her attire. Her bridal bouquet was blue tinted pompons.

Carl Helman of Gladstone served as best man. Ushers were Bernard Johnson, Marquette, a close friend of the bridegroom, and Herman Helman, brother of the bridegroom.

The bride's mother chose a rose tinted lace dress with black accessories. An orchid was pinned to her shoulder. A sister of the bridegroom, Mrs. Edward Farrell of Gladstone, wore a brown and white dress with brown accessories. Pink roses formed her corsage.

A wedding dinner for fifty guests was served at Bonnie Joe's in Mercer. Mixed flowers and candles were placed on the table, with the wedding cake forming the centerpiece.

Rural Schools' Enrollment Up

The 1954 school census in the eight Schoolcraft townships showed a decrease of six since 1953, but enrollments in all the rural schools increased except in Cooks and Hiawatha townships, figures compiled by Mrs. Ludwig Hough, county school superintendent, show.

Cooks school this year has 226 students, against 238 last year, and Hiawatha township has 92, 10 lower than last year. The decrease in Hiawatha township is primarily due to children of pipeline workers leaving after enrollment figures were filed last year, Hough said.

Total rural school enrollment this year is 851, while last year it was 841.

In the city of Manistique total public school enrollment is 1155, compared with 1137 last year, Supt. A. F. Hall has reported.

Township schools which showed increases are as follows:

Thompson, increased 7 to 31 total; Doyle increased by 1 to 84; Seney, increase of 12 to 55 total; Germfask, increase of 4 to 143 total.

Manistique township has a total of 127, the same as last year.

The rural school census this year showed 1237 persons aged 5 through 19. Last year the total was 1243.

Contract Bridge

DOUBLY LUCKY

South was lucky in two respects in the following hand. First, he virtually "tossed a coin" and happened to get into the makeable contract; and second, he received help from the enemy.

South dealer. North-South vulnerable.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
2 NT	Pass	3	Pass
3 NT	Pass	Pass	Pass

South said later that he was "right on the fence," whether to bid four spades over North's three, or to return to notrump, and his actual decision was "just one of those things." It was a lucky decision, however, because East surely would have led the king and ace of diamonds against four spades, and West would have ruffed the third diamond and eventually collected the king of spades as well.

Defending against the actual three-notrump contract, West (rather indiscreetly) opened his fourth-highest heart—the seven. South played dummy's jack, and gained one trick on the spot. He then led a low spade to the queen, hoping to lose the trick, but West cagily played the nine. Now, since it would always be possible to lay down the spade ace, try to drop the king, South turned to the diamond suit in an effort to build an entry to dummy. East, evidently the impatient type, took declarer's queen with the king and returned a heart. (A club shift would have been a far better idea.) South won, cashed the spade ace, then laid his low spade. West won and seeing the hopelessness of the heart situation, shifted to clubs, but too late. South won and led the diamond nine. The ten and jack covered, and now East could win or not, as he likes—the diamond eight was in dummy for a later entry if it was needed.

It did not require much imagination on East's part to see that dummy's only entry to the spade suit might be in diamonds. Thus, he should have refused to take declarer's diamond queen when it was offered to him, and that would have isolated the dummy.

WYNANTSKILL, N.Y., (P)—Mrs. Meta Yetto raises white leghorn, Plymouth Rock and Rhode Island red chickens. But she can't figure out why one—she doesn't know chick—is laying green eggs.

When the first appeared Tuesday she tried to scrub the color off. "They're real eggs," she said, "but I'm not taking any chances opening or eating them."

Braves Expect Tough Game At Newberry Saturday Afternoon

GLADSTONE—Gladstone High School Braves travel to Newberry Saturday to clash with the Indians in what Coach Don Pfothmeyer expects will be an extremely tough game.

Efforts are being made to arrange for a motor cavalcade to travel to the Alger County Seat with a large group of fans so the Braves will have an adequate cheering section at the game.

"If we are to beat them, we'll have to play much better ball than

Sugar Ray Plans Return To Ring

NEW YORK (AP) — Dancing man Ray Robinson, pressed for money to finance a big show, may return to the ring from which he retired in 1952.

Sugar Ray, who once held the world welterweight and middleweight championships, has started workouts and will go into serious training at Greenwood Lake, N.J., starting next Monday.

Nothing is definite, his manager, George Gairford, said today. "Only a lot of work in the camp will show if Sugar has it," he said. "If he doesn't, the whole idea is off. If we are convinced he can still fight, he will return to the ring."

Robinson has been in show business since he retired and Gairford said the pair want to make a tour of the world with their own show. "But," he said, "we figure it will cost a quarter of a million dollars to arrange that — hiring singers, dancers and an orchestra. We don't have that kind of money and we don't want to go into debt for it."

Stormy Meeting May Decide A's Future In American League

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN

CHICAGO (AP) — The meeting of American League club owners in Chicago Tuesday to try to decide what is going to happen, if anything, to their poor relative, the Philadelphia Athletics, could be a stormy one.

At present, the man of mystery in the bidding for the club's franchise is Tommy Richardson of Wilkes-Barre, Pa., president of the Eastern League and a member of the A's board of directors.

He is a mystery only to the extent that nobody seems certain if he really has the backing of wealthy friends to the tune of $3,750,000 to match the bid of Arnold Johnson, the well-heeled Chicago financier who wants to move the A's to Kansas City.

Says He Has Money
The Chicago Tribune today said it has learned that Richardson "has told intimates he has succeeded in raising funds to meet the $3,750,000 purchase price."

Will Harridge, American League president, told the Chicago Sun-Times: "I talked to Roy Mack several times during the day and he made no mention of being able to raise the money. Nor did he say anything about Tommy Richardson gaining enough Philadelphia capital to buy out the club and keep it there."

"I haven't heard from Richardson directly either. As a matter of fact he isn't even coming to

Shift Esky Backfield With Judson Sidelined

The Escanaba Eskimos will present a revised backfield in their home stand against the Kingsford Flivvers here tomorrow afternoon. Kickoff time is 2:30.

Fullback Dave Judson, regular senior starter, will be on the sidelines with injuries sustained in the Menominee game last Saturday night.

Regular right halfback Don Dahlin has been shifted to Judson's spot and Ollie Swanson, re-

BEES PLAY TODAY

The Escanaba Eskimo Bee team will be in action this afternoon at 4 against the Stephenson Eagle reserves at the Escanaba Athletic Field.

serve fullback, is slated for action. Bob Bero, junior halfback, will open at right half and Dale Manske, another junior, will be in his regular left half position. Jim Beck, senior quarterback, gets the starting nod at that position.

Knee Is Hurt

Bob DeMars, regular end, will also likely see little action. He had several teeth pulled this week and is not yet back in top physical shape. Dahlin has been slowed by a knee injury but Coach Joe Milokna feels he will be ready to go by tomorrow.

Lawrence Sauve and Jim Mongrain will be at the ends. Dick Johnson and Jim Gerdeen at the tackles. Pat Coyne and Bob Ferguson at the guards and Walter Nelson at center.

Eskimo workouts this week have been marked by vicious tackling and hard blocking. The Eskimos have been drilled to stop Kingsford's fleet corps of running backs and special emphasis has been placed on pass defense.

Flivvs Won Three

The Flivvs of Coach Rae Drake enter the game with three wins against a lone loss suffered last week to Iron River. Kingsford has scored 109 points to 25 for the opposition. The Flivver victims were Marquette, Niagara and Stephenson. Against Stephenson the Flivvs ran up a 59-0 score, highest in the U. P. this season.

Kingsford's running attack is built around a quartet of speedsters who are small but shifty and fast. Bill Counter, 155, is the fullback, Jerry Kreider, 145, and Lou Deldin 140 are the halfbacks and Clay Willman 170, is the quarterback.

Kingsford runs off the T with Willman an extremely dangerous passer. He suffered a broken finger last week and played with a taped-up hand against Iron River but the break has mended and he should be at peak form Saturday. Other Kingsford backs who see action are Dick Hanson, 140, and Darryl Duford, 150.

Corrigan Standout

Probably the outstanding Kingsford lineman is Clay Corrigan, a 155-pound end who is dangerous as a receiver and is rugged on defense. Biggest man in the line is the other end, Ed Dennis, who goes 190.

Other starters and their weights are tackles Roy Langford, 170, and Walt Michaud, 160; guards Bill Worley, 145, and Don Spanton 160; and center Ron Vish-tainer 170.

Game officials will be Alan Ronberg of Norway, Miles Finnegan and Eddie Doucette of Vulcan.

Little Fullback Leads Small College Gainers

NEW YORK (AP) — Tiny Ralph Capinani of Iowa Teachers, a football fullback despite his 150 pounds, is off to a flying start in defense of his small college individual offense title.

Statistics released today by the NCAA service Bureau show Capinani, who has played only two games, is only 15 yards behind Alvin Beal of Trinity (Texas) who leads with 496 yards on 61 plays in three games. Jim Podoley of Central Michigan is two yards ahead of Capinani, but he also has played three games.

Capinani has picked up most of his yardage by passing and he leads the nation in that department with 20 completions on 49 attempts for a total of 430 yards and two touchdowns.

Beal also is a passer, standing third behind Capinani, while Podoley has done all of his gaining, 483 yards, on the ground.

In pass receiving John Jacobs is the standout with 15 catches in two games. Bill Rhodes of Colorado Western State is running second to Podoley in rushing with 459 yards and is the leading punter with an average of 45.5 yards on six kicks.

Kent State and Marshall rank one-two in both total offense and rushing offense among the teams. Kent State has averaged 501.5

Emeralds Set To 'Get Over Hump' Saturday

MANISTIQUE—Munising has a good ball team, but the Manistique Emeralds will be set to "get over the hump" in Great Lakes conference play when the two clash at 2:15 p. m., Saturday on the Munising gridiron, Coach Dick Bonifas reports.

The Emeralds have a record of two wins and two losses in conference play. In taking a 28-14 victory over the favored Newberry Indians last Saturday night, the Manistique men showed a good passing attack, the coach notes, and some well-executed plays would have resulted in goals if receivers had been adept.

The Emerald mentor said he was much encouraged by the squad's performance in the second half of the Newberry game, and noted that the team "looks better" this week. Players have been working overtime on defense against Munising's split T, he said, and a few new play variations have been added this week.

Munising looked good in play at Stephenson last Saturday, Bonifas said, and will give the Emeralds heavy competition. The Mustangs have beaten Negaunee 12-7 and Marquette 49-6, and have lost to Soo 20-7. They also took a 27-0 victory over Stephenson.

Defensive play by the Emeralds in the second half of the Newberry game was excellent, Bonifas stated, and the team was able to capitalize on its scoring ability when it was needed. Alroy Marsnick and Gerald Graphos turned in good games at defensive end, he said.

Carney and Don Anderson, the safety, Bill Holm, have displayed "very fine" defensive tackling.

Robert Corson and Jim Cowman also rated praise from the Emerald coach for turning in consistently good games as linebackers.

Manistique will use the same basic offense, single wing and wing T in the game Saturday, Bonifas reported. St. Germaine, Soli and Gingrass will officiate.

The Emerald reserves also will play Munising this weekend. The game is scheduled for 8:30 p. m., Friday in Hall stadium here. The Emerald Bees lost 26-6 last week to Newberry.

Green Bay Central Has Big, Experienced Team

Green Bay Central Catholic, Escanaba Central's Sunday afternoon grid foe, features an almost all-senior starting lineup that is big and experienced.

The line is composed of all senior veterans except at left end where Gerald Piontek, 180-pound junior, gets the nod. The remainder of the line is composed of Ronnie Strebel, 180, right end; Roger Wypyszynski, 210, and Bob Skaleski, 185, at tackles; Pat Callahan, 155, and Dale Van Ermen, 180, at guards; and Bob Cashman, 175, at center.

Cashman and Wypyszynski are line standouts but the latter may not start or play as he suffered an internal injury in the Edgewood game last week. Bob Brandl, 185-pounder, is his usual substitute at tackle. Cashman pulls out and backs up the line with senior fullback Roger Malotte, 180, on defense.

sophomore John Fabry, quarterback, who throws passes from the T. Dick Funk, 150-pound senior, starts at left half and Don Murawski, 160-pound junior, at right half. Melotte is the No. 1 fullback and is a hard plunger. Other Central backs who see steady action are Tom Holmes, second-string quarter; Gary Basten, halfback, and Jim Brunette, sophomore fullback. Funk is the team's leading scorer with 36 points.

The Cadets are coached by Ted Fritsch, former Green Bay Packer fullback who formerly starred at Central State College at Stevens Point, Wis. In his third year at Central, Fritsch is assisted by Dr. Alvin F. Mancheski, a former Green Bay East star and Wisconsin University JV player.

The team has won its last three games by shutouts after losing the season opener to Green Bay West, 20-13. Wins came over Racine St. Catherine, 28-0; Menominee 46-0 and Madison Edgewood 19-0.

EGAD, gentle reader, I blush to point out the words of wisdom I gave you last week. Who else correctly forecast Wisconsin to beat Michigan State by one touchdown (I have to remind you that The Horse was the difference as I said he would be), Michigan over Army, Minnesota over Pittsburgh, Indiana over College of Pacific, Ohio State over California, etc., etc.

Heh-heh! What have we in store this week? Your jaws will gap when you cast your eyes on the juicy morsels we have for you. I'm adding a new phase to Dr. Zlobotny's system of prognostication by the radiocatic method.

Take the selection of Michigan State over Indiana, 14-0. Simple, you think? Florian Helinski, you say? Pshaw. Three difficult factors are balanced in that prognostication—har-rump!

The first has to do with Foucault's pendulum, which measures the hourly angular rotation of the earth. The second is ichnography, the art of ground floor planning, and the third is the effect of varying winds on the hovering ability of common kestrels. Just a trifle abstract, I call it!

And now the forecasts. Pay particular attention to the Big Ten games. Here they are!

Southern Cal To Test Young TCU Grid Team

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.
By The Associated Press
Southern California, which may be one of the nation's best college football teams, risks its unbeaten record against a youthful and unpredictable Texas Christian team tonight, but whatever the Trojans do is likely to be forgotten once the rush of Saturday's big games gets underway.

So far this season, Southern California has crushed Washington State and Pittsburgh and barely squeaked past Northwestern. The TCU youngsters were fast and fiery enough to throw a scare into Oklahoma, now the No. 1 team in the weekly Associated Press poll, but they followed that by dropping a close decision to Arkansas.

This game tops a slender Friday night card that also includes Miami (Fla.) vs. Holy Cross, Denver vs. Montana and Davidson vs. Presbyterian.

Saturday Standout
Then on Saturday come such games as Oklahoma vs. Texas at Dallas, Wisconsin vs. Rice (the televised game of the week), Purdue vs. Duke and Stanford vs. Navy.

Oklahoma, although idle, moved to the front in the national ratings last week while other leaders were being engulfed in a wave of upsets. With Gene Calame, their star quarterback, still out of action and sophomore Jim Harris taking his place, the Sooners may be in for a bad time this week.

Texas beaten by Notre Dame two weeks ago, looks on this game as an opportunity to reinstate the idea that it is by far the best team in the Southwest.

The Rice-Wisconsin meeting brings together two of the season's most talented and colorful backs on any major teams. It's Rice's Dicky Moegle, a speedy, elusive runner against Wisconsin's Alan (The Horse) Ameche, a mobile mountain who crushes opposing tacklers. Wisconsin is the No. 3 team in this week's AP poll behind Oklahoma and UCLA.

Purdue Plays Duke
Purdue, which had its day of glory in beating Notre Dame, runs into a well-balanced, experienced Duke team that has a wealth of good backs. They're fifth and sixth, respectively, in the weekly ratings.

Stanford, a lightly regarded team until it whipped Illinois before the TV spectators last week, can establish itself more strongly by beating a high-scoring Navy team in the day's top game on the Pacific Coast. Second-ranked UCLA has a comparatively soft one against Washington.

There's a heavy concentration of good games in the Midwest including fourth-ranked Iowa vs. Michigan, Ohio State vs. deflated Illinois, Michigan State vs. Indiana, Northwestern vs. Minnesota, Southern Methodist vs. Missouri, Kansas

State vs. Nebraska, Kansas vs. Iowa State, Oklahoma A. and M. vs. Wichita, and Cincinnati vs. Marquette.

Notre Dame, down to eighth in AP national rankings, seeks to climb back at Pittsburgh, where it meets twice-beaten Pitt. The eastern program also includes Virginia-Penn State, Dartmouth-Army Penn., Princeton, Harvard-Cornell and Yale-Columbia.

Mostly Easy Foes
Most of the South's good teams go up against opponents they should handle easily. Headliners include Maryland-Wake Forest, Georgia-North Carolina, Clemson-Florida, George Washington-West Virginia, Auburn-Kentucky, Tulane-Georgia Tech, Mississippi State-Tulane.

In the Southwest its Baylor-Arkansas and Texas A. and M.-Houston.

Colorado, the only unscored-on team, goes to Arizona for a night game. Others in the Rocky Mountain-Pacific Coast area include Wyoming-Colorado A. and M., Oregon-California and Oregon State-Washington State.

Moegle And Ameche TV Stars Saturday
MADISON, Wis. (AP)—The inter-sectional nationally televised football game here Saturday afternoon boils down to a dual attraction: Rice vs. Wisconsin and Moegle vs. Ameche.

The Owls from Houston and the Badgers, both unbeaten, will clash before a sellout crowd of 52,819 at Camp Randall Stadium.

Wisconsin is rated third in this week's AP poll of the nation's teams, Rice 11th.

Most promising are the expected performances of two of the nation's top backs—Rice's high-flying dervish Dicky Moegle, who has exploded for five touchdowns on 220 yards in only 16 carries, playing less than half the time, and Wisconsin's mighty Alan Ameche, the slashing, battering "Horse," who has ground out 234 yards in 35 attempts, scoring two touchdowns in the process.

Ameche ranks 10th in the nation in rushing, Moegle 15th. The Badger fullback is famed for his relentless power while the Owl dependable is remarkably shifty and fast.

Badger Coach Ivy Williamson commented: "We have every reason to fear Rice. The Owls are unusually fast, deceptive and well coached. The Rice line will outweigh ours but isn't as deep in reserves."

The early season score sheet shows Rice victories over Florida and Cornell, while Wisconsin spanked Marquette and Michigan State. The invaders, Southwestern Conference champions last fall, won the Cotton Bowl show last New Year's Day. The Badgers finished third in the Big Ten race a year ago.

When the two schools met in their only previous encounter, in 1952, Wisconsin won 21-7.

Record Series Melon Announced By Frick
NEW YORK (AP)—Both the New York Giants and the Cleveland Indians cut up record World Series shares this year. Twenty-eight Giants, plus their trainer and clubhouse attendant, received $11,147.90 each, while each Indian collected $6,712.50.

Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick announced the breakdown Thursday. The full Giants' share was $2,867.22 more than the previous record of the New York Yankees of 1953. The Indians, who distributed 35½ shares, also set a record for a loser.

There were 6,911 certified bowling establishments in operation during the 1953-54 season which ended July 31, according to the American Bowling Congress. This is a record says the ABC.

Johnson Begins Comeback Trail
PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Harold Johnson, bidding for his seventh shot at lightweight champion Archie Moore, and "Boardwalk Billy" Smith, seeking his fifth bout with the elderly champ, meet tonight for the first time in a 10-round fight at the arena.

Johnson, rated No. 1 contender for Moore's title, is quoted as a 14-5 favorite here in his home town. His last outing was in a championship scrap Aug. 11 when, with victory within his reach, he was knocked out by Moore.

That snapped a 12-bout winning streak for Johnson, whose record is now 48 wins and 6 defeats. Five of the defeats were at Moore's hands and the other was a knock-out loss to former heavyweight champion Jersey Joe Walcott.

Johnson will have the advantage of age—he's 26 and Smith is 33—speed and skill. Both boys have good punching power. Johnson has knocked out 22. And Smith has KO'd 30 in winning 56, losing 20 and fighting 4 draws. In four bouts with Moore, he lost three and drew one.

Smith is rated No. 4 in the light heavyweight division.

Tonight's bout will be televised and broadcast by NBC at 9 p.m., CST.

Sports Roundup

By GAYLE TALBOT
NEW YORK (AP)—Whatever happened to the football coach who was moaning only a year ago that the college game had gone to the dogs with abolition of the two-platoon system? Does he still feel that way after having "given the game back to the boys" through one full campaign and part of a second?

The answer is that he's still throbbing like an inflamed tooth, but has become more or less resigned to playing with a single unit. He knows now that it's here to stay. Here's what one of them said privately a few days back: "We're not playing anywhere near as good football, but at least we're equally bad and I doubt that the spectators notice any big difference. You are seeing more so called upsets and high, crazy scores than you did when we could throw in a fresh, strong defensive unit and rest up our ball carriers."

"There just isn't enough time to teach defense. We've got to bear down on the offense and hope that the boys were taught how to tackle somewhere back in their youth and that they have enough stamina to hold up when the other side gets rolling. It might be a long time before you see another major team go through an undefeated season."

"There's no secret about how we pitch to Willie Mays," said manager Birdie Tebbets of Cincinnati. "We give him nothing to hit at. If he wants to hit at a bad ball, that's okay. If he doesn't, he can draw a walk, and that's all right, too. He can't hurt you as much on first as he can at the plate."

"There never was a player who could hit a bad pitch better than he could a good one."

"Take Yogi Berra in the other league. If Yogi didn't have to hit at bad balls most of the time he probably would hit 30 or 40 points better than he does. Everybody knows Yogi will go for almost anything."

"They tell a story about how one time on third strike, Yogi swung at a ball at least a foot over his head and went back to the Yankee dugout muttering to himself."

"How," he demanded to know, "does a guy as wild as that ever stick in this league?"

Injuries May Prove Too Much For Michigan, Michigan State In Big Ten Clashes Saturday

CHICAGO (AP)—Injuries to key personnel may play hob in important Big Ten football games Saturday.

One of the hardest hit is once-beaten Michigan, making its conference start as host to undefeated Iowa.

The Wolverines, 13 points underdogs, have had their hopes of upsetting the Hawkeyes jolted by the loss of fullback Lou Baldacci and star halfback Tony Branoff.

Iowa, led by coach Forest Evashevski, one of Michigan's all-time greats as a player, is at its best physical shape of the season. The Hawkeyes will be gunning for their second conference victory after taking a 14-10 opening decision from Michigan State. Last week they tuned up with a 48-6 romp over Montana while Army was trimming Michigan 26-7.

Bolden Stays Home
Michigan State's great halfback, Leroy Bolden, was not included on the traveling list to Indiana. It will be the first time in four seasons that the Spartans' senior and co-captain has not dressed for a game.

But the Hoosiers also have their troubles. Halfback Milt Campbell's status is doubtful after the sophomore star failed to respond to treatment for pulled leg muscles.

Michigan State, rated a 10-point favorite, will be striving for its first conference triumph after losing to Iowa and 6-0 to Wisconsin last week.

Buckeyes Hurt
Illinois, opening its Big Ten title bid after non-league defeats by Penn State and Stanford, will square off against powerful Ohio State at Champaign, Ill., probably without the services of two fleet sophomore halfbacks, Abe Woodson and Harry Jefferson. Woodson still is hobbled with a bad ankle and Jefferson has a fractured jaw.

The Buckeyes are a seven point choice to gain their third victory after defeating Indiana 28-0 and California 21-13.

Neither Northwestern nor Minnesota, who meet at Minneapolis in the only other conference test, has injury troubles and appear at full strength. The surprising split-T Gophers are favored in the traditional battle after rolling over Nebraska 19-7 and Pitt 46-7.

Two Sectional Tilts
In a pair of exceptional inter-sectional contests among unbeaten teams, Wisconsin is host to the Southwest Conference co-champion Rice Owls and Purdue entertains the pride of the south, Duke.

Wisconsin is regarded a 10-point choice in its nationally-televised encounter. The Purdue Boilermakers, whose sophomore passer Len Dawson has hurled eight touchdown passes in victories over Missouri and Notre Dame, is a seven point favorite.

Notre Dame will try to snap back from its 27-14 licking by Purdue in a game at Pitt, and Marquette is host to Cincinnati in a night contest.

Michigan Lineup To Be Makeshift

ANN ARBOR (AP)—For the Michigan Wolverines necessity is the mother of invention when they meet Iowa's powerful Hawkeyes Saturday.

It will be a makeshift lineup that Michigan coach Bennie Oosterbaan finally patches together. His crippled Wolverines will probably have more untested material than in the previous two games this season.

Chief among the unusual choices will likely be sophomore quarterback Jim Maddock and fullback halfback Dave Hill.

Fullback Lou Baldacci and Michigan's chances of upsetting Iowa were shrouded in the grey of a warmup jacket on the sidelines Thursday. Right halfback Tony Branoff, whose knees gave way on him after limited play in two games this season, was not even on the football field.

There is scarcely one first string player who doesn't have some hurt or ills.

One Wolverine coach said, "We were never in worse shape."

Howe Praised In Red Wings' Win

DETROIT (AP)—Here's a strange one:

Gordie Howe, right winger of the Detroit Red Wings, missed five goals Thursday night, but drew most of the praise as the Wings opened the National Hockey League season with a 2-1 victory over the Toronto Maple Leafs.

It was a frustrating evening, to say the least, for the high scoring Howe. Goalie Harry Lumley robbed him of four "sure" goals, while Howe fired wide by inches on another.

After the game, General Manager Jack Adams and coach Jimmy Skinner sang loud and long in praise of Howe.

"It was one of the greatest games I've ever seen him play," said Adams.

"He never stopped skating," added Skinner. "He was great defensively even though he missed all those goals."

Skinner, making his big league coaching debut, saw the Wings show they didn't need any goals by Howe to continue their mastery over the Maple Leafs. Toronto hasn't won a regular season game in Detroit since Nov. 2, 1952.

Metro Prystai scored in the first period and Marcel Pronovost added by clincher in the second period. These goals offset a late tally by Toronto's Sim Smith in the five minutes.

The Red Wings haven't lost a home opener since 1938—a span of 16 years.

Johnson Begins Comeback Trail
PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Harold Johnson, bidding for his seventh shot at lightweight champion Archie Moore, and "Boardwalk Billy" Smith, seeking his fifth bout with the elderly champ, meet tonight for the first time in a 10-round fight at the arena.

Johnson, rated No. 1 contender for Moore's title, is quoted as a 14-5 favorite here in his home town. His last outing was in a championship scrap Aug. 11 when, with victory within his reach, he was knocked out by Moore.

Smith is rated No. 4 in the light heavyweight division.

THE ANTIQUATED FREEZE

can turn the hottest ideas to ice

The FREEZE is an executive who inhabits aging firms. Sometimes is found perched on legal departments, or hovering over comptrollers' offices.

One blink of his eye can paralyze the best idea, and a waggle of his tongue can freeze an enthusiasm.

He long ago reconciled himself to the fact that a certain amount of the company's funds must be "frittered away" on token advertising... but turns thumbs down on any program that would really work — because programs that work cost money.

Fortunately the FREEZE is a rare creature.

The wise executive realizes that advertising is part of the flesh and blood of a throbbing, prosperous enterprise. And all he asks is that the advertising work.

So he insists on newspaper advertising because newspapers are basic — the foundation of an intelligent ad schedule.

Because only the newspaper reaches just about everybody in every community. Because only the newspaper carries the sense of urgency — "If it's advertised today, I'd better go down and get it quick."

No wonder advertisers invested twice as much money in newspapers last year as in any other medium!

Discuss Sale Of Chinchilla

The directors of the Upper Michigan branch of the National Chinchilla Breeders of America met Wednesday at the Sherman Hotel to consider resolutions to be presented at the annual meeting of the national association in Washington, D. C. Nov. 16 to 20. M. A. Trams will be the delegate from the local branch.

Secretary Trams discussed the results of the first chinchilla pelt auction and reported that a number of Delta County pelts were sold in the auction at prices ranging to $175. One local pelt was in the bundle of 20 that brought the top price. The average price was $33.14.

R. H. Clouse, president, said that the sale results were very satisfactory as far as the Upper Peninsula was concerned. In addition to the pelts sold at the auction, a number of pelts have been sold at private sales.

The local branch has pledged its support of the national program designed to distinguish the difference between chinchilla wool and chinchilla fur.

Members also voted support of a program designed to inform the public of a realistic relation to values of breeding stock as compared with the value of pelts.

The local chinchilla breeders hope to provide about 300 pelts for the next sale to be held early in 1955.

ST. IGNACE—The Michigan Labor Market Letter published by the Michigan Employment Security Commission reports labor conditions in the St. Ignace area during the late summer months as follows according to Oliver Cummings of the local office:

"Increased activity on the Mackinac Straits Bridge project raised employment in the construction industry by 300, in transportation 100, and in government establishments by 100. Other industries remained at steady levels. Male workers, migrating into the area seeking work on the bridge project outnumbered job openings by a two to one ratio. ## Governor No Help In Highway Plans, Ziegler Discloses

LANSING (AP)—State Highway Commissioner Charles M. Ziegler today made public the highway construction plan for the next two years which Gov. Williams has been demanding.

Ziegler told the governor that after he had reviewed the present and future program "I think the people of the state would like to know which of these construction projects were, in your opinion, not needed and what projects you would have substituted for them if you could have made the decision."

Ziegler said that even though the law gives him full control over the highways, the cooperation and counsel of the governor would have been welcomed at any time.

"However, not once during the six years you have been governor have you ever asked me for a conference to constructively discuss a road-building program. Instead of cooperating, you are constantly criticizing, confusing the people and stirring up unnecessary trouble, obviously for political reasons, and contributing nothing constructive."

The department construction policy, Ziegler said, complied with the state high law requiring the highway system to be developed uniformly in all areas of the state. He said the department could not concentrate its limited construction funds on one or two projects and disregard the needs of other areas of the state.

Kentucky Man, 105, Looks For Business Boom On Birthday

CORBIN, Ky. (AP)—Business should be booming today for Robert A. Early. It's his 105th birthday.

He has learned through experience that when friends drop around to congratulate him on these occasions, they usually buy some of the articles he has built in his woodworking shop.

It's a fitting and proper thing to turn an honest penny any time," said Early, "and my 105th birthday is no exception."

Early tinkers in the shop nearly every day, finding it difficult to remain inactive after crowding a "heap o' living" into the last 105 years.

He can't remember the last time he really was sick. He carries his six-foot frame firmly and uses a cane more for effect than necessity.

Early has no formula to pass on for living into a second century. "Just say I'm lazy," he chuckled.

700 Mink Remain In Ranch Mishap Near Marinette

MARINETTE—With about 700 of their 4,000 mink herd still alive today, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Luckert and the many mink ranchers who aided them believe they have checked the mass deaths at the farm on Shore Drive. The loss is estimated at more than $60,000.

More than 3,000 minks died from food poisoning in 24 hours Tuesday. Ranchers from many parts of Wisconsin hurried to aid the Luckerts with a mass injection of antitoxin. Ranchers from Wauwatosa, Peshigo, Suamico and other areas were still at work today.

Experiments will be conducted at the site to help prevent a similar outbreak at another farm.

Mrs. George Call of Sheboygan, a rancher, said the Luckerts will be aided by members of the several associations to which they belong. She and Luckert are 20-year members of the United Mink Producers Association.

She said the associations may be expected to provide breeding stock. Mrs. Call added that the poisoning resulted from food which was incompletely frozen. The freezing mishap may have occurred during the time the food, containing whale meat, left a foreign port and arrived in the United States, she said.
